Britain Strikes in the West

FREIGHT CARS STANDING ON RAILROAD

DIRECT BOMB HITS ON RAILROAD

By day and by night the British are plastering Germany and German occupied territory with bombs. These remarkable pictures, passed by the British censors, show the results of one daylight raid on a railroad switchyard at Hazebruck in northern France. A stick of bombs is hitting along the railroad, destroying supply trains as well as the roadbed itself. Damage like this won't help the Germans any, especially if the Russians have them bogged down.

Canadian Scottish Are Home on Leave

It's swell seeing Victoria again after Debert," grinned Pte. J. B. Smith, as he started up the wharf today from a special boat, home on leave after several months of training in eastern Canada.

And that sentiment was voiced scores of times by 250 companions of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, who, shouldering knapsacks and duffle bags, left the ship to be greeted by parents, wives, girl friends and chums.

Hundreds of Victorians waited on the dock as the special boat glided into the harbor, heralded by trumpet calls from her deck and the cheering of the homecoming troops.

While the ship was being made fast, the troops lined the rail and hailed eager friends milling past the guards ashore. They waited impatiently as the gang-plank was hoisted from the crowded deck and came spilling off the moment it thumped onto the wharf.

Tears of happiness appeared in many eyes as the men rushed off the ship and were hustled up the wharf and away to their homes, where, as mothers and wives explained, "you can tell us all about what you've been doing, after you've had something to eat."

"Boy, it's fine to be home," said Pte. Cecil Rutledge, one of the first men off the ship. "The trip was rather boring, but it's grand to be here."

Corporal Ronald Bland, on the other hand, thought the trip was "not bad, but a little slow."

POSTPONE WEDDING

Pte. Dudley W. Brinkman had more right to complain about the trip being slow. Because the special train was delayed, his wedding had to be postponed from last night until tonight.

"They're treating us fine back east," declared Pte. Basil Robinson, "but you can see that all the boys here are glad to get home."

"The camp is swell," said Pte. Fred Nex.

The troops will remain in Victoria until Monday.

"The time's too short," Sgt. E. Fairhurst said.

Victoria boys came to the coast with hundreds of other British Columbians aboard a special train, piled into a bus in Vancouver and were taken to the boat which brought them to Victoria. Some were accompanied on the boat trip by their wives.

Pte. R. S. Hool of Victoria said that he planned to get plenty of swimming and tennis into his three days at home.

Pte. Fred Jancowski, Victoria, said he had plenty of places to visit. In the same group with Jancowski were Pte. Henry Benson, Pte. Hopkins and Pte. Reid, all of Victoria.

Pte. Ron McConnan said it was grand to be back. Pte. G. L. Sluggitt echoed this opinion with a hearty smile.

"It's fine," he declared.

Nanaimo boys in the group were obliged to stay overnight in Vancouver, and were a bit down in the mouth when they found they couldn't catch a boat for home immediately.

Lieut. H. V. Bigwood of Lane Road, Cowichan, of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish, was met in Vancouver by his wife. He was not planning to come to the island.

Most of the men planned to spend their brief leave with their families. It was announced that the Scottish gift house on Despard Avenue would be opened tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 so that they might inspect it.

Nazis Use Poison

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Vice-Commissar S. A. Lozovsky said today at a press conference that there have been "cases where the Germans at certain points used poisonous substances."

He said Russia has "not yet replied with the same new weapons," but he warned "as long ago as June 28 an official communiqué stated that the Germans were preparing something like this."

Ontario Man Prisoner

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Word was received here today that Dr. Wilfred Crowe, son of Mrs. Crowe and the late Frank Crowe of Orangeville, has been taken prisoner somewhere in Africa.

Malahat Closing Brings Protest

Many Victorians, particularly those concerned with catering to the tourist interests, today protested closing of a section of the Malahat Highway for reconstruction purposes at the height of the tourist season.

Closure of the road between mile 20 and 23 went into effect at 8 this morning as contractors commenced a project of widening and straightening the road at a narrow stretch.

Sightseeing interests pointed out that their tours, citing the Malahat Drive as the main attraction, are advertised months in advance and tour parties arranged. Some tickets were sold as long ago as last winter and now the companies are faced with having to cancel their trips.

While detour is provided by way of Shawnigan Lake, sightseeing men say this route is rougher and longer. Many tourists take the trip between boats and schedules are so arranged to occupy just the time available. The longer trip is impossible for these people. The section under improvement is also the most scenic part of the drive.

Tourist resorts served by the closed section may be out of business for six weeks.

Interests who have protested claim that the road work could just as easily have been done earlier, or later, rather than at the height of the tourist season. They agreed that the job is necessary as part of the highway improvement scheme, but suggest it could be postponed.

Ship Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The British government announced today it had waived its belligerent rights concerning Italian and German ships seized by the United States.

The announcement, made by the British embassy here, will enable the United States to operate 28 Italian and two German vessels seized by the United States in ports here last March after their crews had wrecked much of the machinery in attempts to disable the ships for service.

U.S. Workers Build Bases In Northern Ireland

Canadian and Associated Press

The foreign office in London said today "some technicians and laborers from the United States are engaged in connection with certain works that are proceeding in Northern Ireland."

"All these, however, are direct employees of the British government," the statement added.

"They had entered into employment in the exercise of their perfectly legal right to accept such occupation, and it is equally open to any other United States citizens who may desire to aid the British cause to engage themselves in Britain."

The foreign office said that reports the United States is establishing an air base in Northern Ireland "are not borne out by information available in London."

The statement was issued after London evening newspapers had published reports from New York of construction of a naval and air base by 400 American technicians. Dispatches from Belfast had said technicians and workers from the United States were engaged on a construction project of an undisclosed nature in Northern Ireland.

U.S. Workers Aid In Many Countries

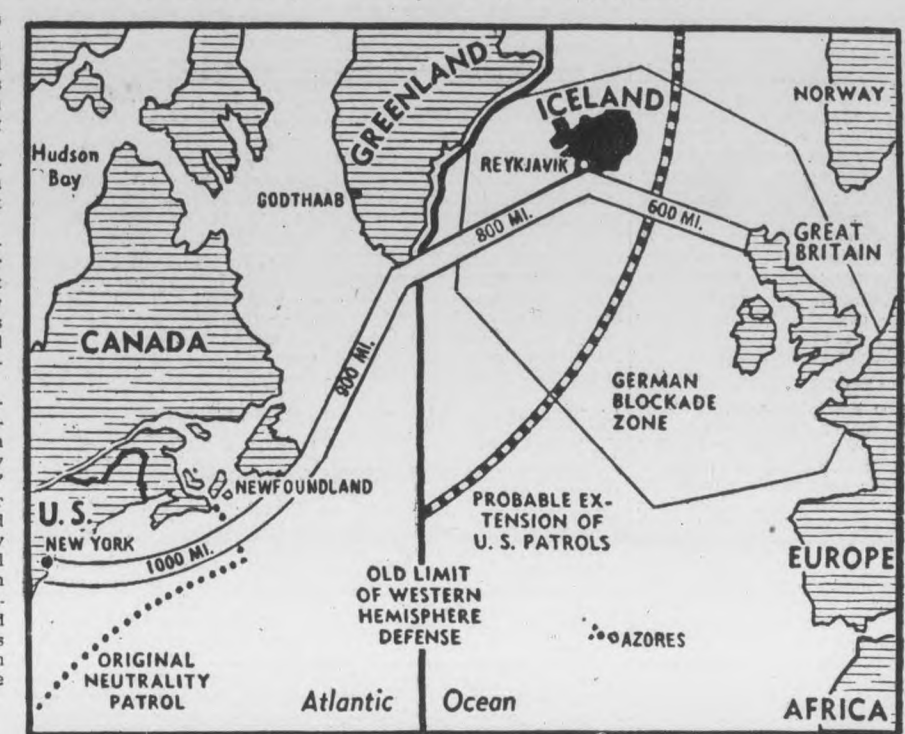

President Roosevelt told his press conference in Washington today he would not be surprised if American steel had gone into 50 British bases and if American workmen all over the world were being paid by the British government.

And this, he said, is perfectly legal.

During the discussion the question of construction of American bases in Ireland or Scotland arose. Senator Burton Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, has said he had information such construction was under way.

In answer to a reporter, the President said whatever was being done was being accomplished either through straight purchases by the British government or under the Lease-Lend Act.

It was then he went on to say he would not be surprised if Americans were working for Britain all over the world and American steel was being used "in bases from Canada to South Africa and elsewhere."

ICELAND SEIZURE EXTENDS U.S. PATROLS INTO NAZI BLOCKADE ZONE—As the United States Navy takes over the protection of Iceland, American patrols automatically extend into Germany's blockade zone, bringing U.S. armed forces within 600 miles of Great Britain as shown on map. Note, above, the gradual extension showing the original neutrality patrol boundary; the old limit of Western Hemisphere defence and the probable extensions of patrols from Iceland.

Mr. Roosevelt had no comment on the suggestion of Wendell L. Willkie that American bases be established in the British Isles.

Wheeler had asserted that cargoes of materials already had been sent to northern Ireland and Scotland for construction of United States naval bases. The Montana Democrat thus trumped the charge made by Senator Robert Taft, Republican, Ohio, yesterday that the United States was engaged in constructing air bases in both countries, but for the use of Great Britain.

At the same time, Senator Walter George, Georgia Democrat, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, announced he is opposed to dispatching United States armed forces to any additional points outside the western hemisphere. He said he doubted reasons existed to justify further action in this regard.

In London a U.S. embassy spokesman said "there are American technicians engaged in work" both in Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Informed British sources said they had no authority to disclose how long the men had been engaged.

Belfast dispatches told of people of Northern Ireland giving many evidences of the popularity of the Americans. Bands are buying copies of "The Star Spangled Banner" to play in their honor. The Americans spend their money freely and some are said to have handed out pound notes for tips, mistaking them for dollar bills.

The Northern Whig and Belfast Post said editorially:

"The establishment of American bases here may be nearer than is realized. For obvious reasons speculation is undesirable. It is unfortunate that such premature revelations, whether true or not, should be made across the Atlantic."

Another newspaper, the Belfast Telegraph, said "we hope that if military and naval occupation of the whole or part of Northern Ireland foreshadowed by Senator Taft takes place it will form part of a bold and aggressive campaign by Britain and America, which will strike resounding blows at the enemy's land, air and sea power in the west while he is too deeply committed to the attack on Russia to employ his full strength elsewhere."

Nazis Admit Drive Halted; New Plunge Expected Soon

Canadian and Associated Press

The Russian army in 19 days of give-and-take fighting has won a respite from the German drive, the Kremlin indicated today.

Unless the Russians had suddenly adopted the secretive technique of the German high command, today's communiqué implied that the German armies, like an unwinding steel spring, had played themselves out in their part-way invasion, still short of breaching the Stalin Line.

"Nothing particular occurred on the fronts during last night," said the announcement, thus laconically accounting for all sectors of a 2,000-mile battleline from the Arctic shore to the Black Sea.

There was nothing later than the report covering the night on the front. Reports for the 20th day of battle were still unpublished.

How soon and if the Germans could "rewind" their military machine for a new assault was the problem. But whatever time the Germans required also was time for the Russians to organize their own defenses for a new thrust, or even to prepare counter-offensive action.

DNB, Nazi news and propaganda agency, today conceded Germany's drive eastward from the Bialystok-Minsk area is stalled at several places, but a military spokesman claimed the Red army has lost 1,000,000 men killed and captured and declared "Russian military collapse is inevitable."

The spokesman called attention to what he described as a crescendo in the language of the high command. Its communiqué

ON RUSSIAN FRONT RED SOLDIERS SMILE FOR CAMERAMAN — Radioed from Moscow, this shows, according to the Moscow-approved caption: "Members of a Russian machine gun unit flashing smiles as they face the enemy in a moor on the Russian front." (Radiotelephoto R.C.A. System).

three days ago, he asserted, said operations were proceeding "on schedule," the next day "successfully" and yesterday "relentlessly."

"In view of the careful language of the high command's bulletins," he said, "this leaves readers to draw their own conclusions."

London sources said it was reported reliably but without confirmation today that a mighty new German offensive, aimed at overwhelming results, is under way in Russia.

These reports said an offensive pointed at Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev is to be backed with the full might of Hitler's mechanized divisions.

One neutral source expressed the opinion that if the Germans push as far in the next 10 days as they did in the first seven of the campaign on the eastern front "they will have gone a long way toward winning the initial campaign of the Russian war."

The depth of their drives in the first thrusts toward Moscow and Kiev, the Russian Ukraine capital, was estimated by observers here at about 120 miles.

A rest period for the German forces after 14 days of very hard fighting now has ended, this source said.

The halt came because of two reasons, he added, difficulty of supply and exhaustion of tank troops, but now "the Nazis will throw everything in the way of mobile troops, armored, mechanized and motorized divisions into the offensive."

Any optimism over Russian strength in the past 48 hours should be "tempered by memories of similar pauses of the Germans in Flanders, France and Greece," this source cautioned.

But, he said, it is "definite that Russian resistance has been much stronger than anticipated by the Germans."

Vichy Rejects Terms, Syria Fight May Go On

Canadian and Associated Press
The Vichy government, after studying British terms for an armistice in Syria, announced to night it had found them unacceptable and indications were that the fight with British and Free French forces would go on.

The announcement added that the terms "seemed to have been edited precisely to prevent all possibility of eventual agreement on the points in question."

The Allied terms, Vichy claimed, implied Vichy recognition of the Free French movement. The Petainists called this an attack on "the dignity of the nation."

The Petainists said the Allied note, given in response to a Vichy truce overture, "clearly showed Great Britain's will to conquer territories under mandate."

ALLED TRAITORS

The Petainists declared "it is impossible for the French government to treat with De Gaulle's leaders, traitors to their country."

After conferences among Defence Minister Charles Huntziger, Gen. Maxime Weygand, north Africa chief, and Vice-Premier Jean Darlan, the entire Vichy cabinet met in late afternoon and reported unanimous rejection of the proposals.

The possibility stood that Gen. Henri Dentz, High Commissioner for Syria, confronted by overpowering allied thrusts through the mandate territory, might come to terms on his own responsibility.

Vichy spokesmen said Dentz would "take decisions made necessary by the situation on the spot." It was Dentz who last Tuesday asked the Allies to cease firing pending negotiation of an armistice.

NAZIS CARRY TROOPS

Meanwhile Ankara received reports that German air transports had landed Vichy reinforcements in Aleppo in an attempt to prolong resistance in Syria.

British sources said waves of German-type aircraft had been seen en route from German-held Greece, where a Vichy division has been reported aboard ship at the port of Salonika but unable to continue to Syria because of the tight naval blockade.

Halifax Plans Trip To Britain

Alaska Highway Commission Favors 'B' Route for Road

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian commissioners who have studied possible routes for the Alaska highway believe the most suitable pathway to the north will run from Prince George, B.C., to Dawson, Y.T., Hon. Charles Stewart, chairman of the British Columbia, Yukon and Alaska Highway Association, told the Canadian Press today.

Construction of about 1,100 miles of new road on Canadian territory would be involved if the highway follows the route reports indicate as the most economical and most satisfactory, Mr. Stewart said. (This is known as the Rocky Mountains trench route.)

The five-man commission was appointed by the Dominion government two years ago to report on possible routes.

A second feasible route through more difficult country, where snowfall is heavier, runs from Hazelton, B.C., to Whitehorse, Y.T., Mr. Stewart said.

Decision Left To Government

Complete reports on both routes are being presented to the government. Mr. Stewart said it was not part of the commission's duty to make a decision as to the route to be followed, but rather to collect complete information and let the government make the choice.

Mr. Stewart said estimates of probable cost had not been prepared, but engineers were working on final details of the report and costs would be considered. Estimates are being based on the road having a gravel surface and being built of width and quality of the standard required by the Trans-Canada Highway.

"It appears to the commission that from the detailed reports assembled for it that the B route from Prince George to Dawson is the most economical and most easily constructed," Mr. Stewart said.

"Examinations of this route have convinced us that it will serve efficiently all 'feeder' roads built or proposed in surrounding districts. Its location makes it easy of access to travelers from the east, west and south, whether from the prairies, the coast or the United States."

Route Would Use Existing Roads
"It will be able to make use of existing roads such as the important Cariboo Highway and mining roads constructed recently in northern British Columbia," he added.

Mr. Stewart said final reports probably would be presented to the government in "two or three weeks."

Mr. Stewart said the order of the government instructed the commissioners to confine their studies of possible routes to British Columbia and the Yukon.

The Canadian commissioners worked in co-operation with a similar organization established by the U.S. government and which is concerned with the extension of the highway beyond the Canadian-Alaska boundary to Fairbanks, Alaska, a distance of less than 280 miles.

The Canadian chairman said he had not been informed of the stage reached by the U.S. commissioners in their studies of routes which will be necessary for completion of the road to Fairbanks.

Comprehensive examination of the mountain country of northern British Columbia and the Yukon had convinced the commissioners as to where the feasible routes lay, said Mr. Stewart.

If the road is built along the route favored by the commission, the future Alaska-bound traveler will use existing highways, which would be improved in places to bring an equalized standard, to Prince George.

Along Finlay Forks And Sifton Pass

Making use of stretches of existing road constructed to mining camps in some areas, the highway will run north to Finlay Forks, the Sifton Pass, then northwest to the headwaters of the Liard River, the headwaters of the Pelly River, down the Pelly to the Yukon River and Whitehorse. Beyond Dawson the road would run to the Alaska border to connect with the American road to Fairbanks.

For the alternative route—route "A," in the commission's reports—the road would run from Hazelton or Fort St. James on Stuart Lake and follow waterways to Atlin. An alternative was available for a part of route "A," running farther west to Atlin, from where a single route "A" pathway has been traced to Whitehorse.

By following route "B," the highway could make use of mining roads running from Vanderhoof to Manson Creek and in the Finlay Forks area, Mr. Stewart said. It was estimated that about 80 miles of road in this northern area could be incorporated in the highway.

Members of the Canadian commission are: Mr. Stewart, J. M. Wardle, director, survey and engineering branch, Mines and Resources Department; Brig.-Gen. T. L. Tremblay, Quebec; Arthur Dixon, British Columbia Department of Public Works and J. W. Spencer, Vancouver businessman. L. J. Burpee is secretary.

Mr. Stewart said that existing roads, without a particular route being specified, could be used for travel from the United States to the Cariboo Trail. He said that only improvements of the Cariboo Trail were considered and the new road mileage would be confined largely to the northern areas of British Columbia and the Yukon.

Deny U.S. Navy Combat Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary Frank Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark voiced what were termed by committee men "categorical denials" before the Senate naval committee today of published charges that the United States navy had engaged in combat with Nazi naval units.

In a closed session lasting more than three hours, the Secretary of the Navy and the navy's chief of operations were reported to have denied "line by line" demands made in a resolution introduced by Senator Burton Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, to know whether the navy had engaged in a "shooting war."

Chairman David W. Walsh said the committee would make a report on its hearing, probably next Tuesday. He predicted this report would "clear up a lot of questions."

One committee member said there was an "emphatic" denial from both Knox and Stark that American naval units had engaged in conveying ships carrying supplies to Britain.

Child Did Not Stop at Sign

Nine-year-old Dorothy Sterne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sterne, 1601 Bank Street, who died in Jubilee Hospital on July 4 from injuries she received when she collided with a car while riding her bicycle at Richmond Road and Leighton Street on June 25, failed to halt at a stop sign at the intersection, it was learned at an inquest into her death today.

Accidental death was the verdict of the coroner's jury which heard witnesses of the accident at the inquest in McCall Brothers Funeral Parlors.

Dr. John McKinnon said the youngster did not regain consciousness from the time she was admitted to hospital until the time she passed away. Death was due to fractures of the skull. The youngster had other injuries and many bruises and lacerations.

Jessie Reid said she was a half a block away on Richmond Road when she saw Dorothy go through the stop sign and run into the side of the car.

Donald Begg, 931 Cloverdale Avenue, driver of the car, said he did not see the youngster until she was opposite him. He said he was travelling at about 25 miles an hour.

Constable Sam McKenzie of the city police said there was a skid mark from one tire of the car 56 feet long. He said the brakes of the car had been tested and were in good condition.

In bringing in the verdict of accidental death the jury recommended that a hedge which obstructed view at the corner in question be torn down.

Norwegians Aid Russians in Finland

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian communique related today how Red army scouts seized two armed men in civilian clothes in a raid into Finland and found them to be pro-Russian Norwegian guerrilla fighters behind the Finnish lines.

Disarmed at a Soviet outpost, the communique said, the captives identified themselves as Norwegian workers named Berner and Larson who had joined a guerrilla group when the Nazis occupied Norway. When they heard of the German invasion of Russia, it said, they decided to carry on their sabotage work behind Finnish-German lines in northern Norway and Finland.

Slow Repatriation

ISTANBUL (AP) — So many difficulties have arisen between the Germans and Russians over repatriation of their diplomatic personnel that authoritative sources said today it would require four more days to complete the transfer.

A Turkish negotiator has worked for several days to adjust differences so that about 350 Germans could cross into Turkey from Russia and so at least 1,500 Russians from all Axis-controlled nations in Europe could enter Russia through Bulgaria.

Seymour Narrows Claims 3 Lives

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP) — Two Regina men, H. W. Williams, 44, and R. G. Williams, 54, brothers, and Chamber Baldwin, 60, Campbell River guide, were drowned when the rowboat from which they were fishing overturned in Seymour Narrows, eight miles up the east coast of Vancouver Island from here.

The body of Baldwin was recovered shortly after by a passing fishing boat, but the bodies of the Regina men had not been found this afternoon.

Both prairie men, who came here four or five days ago on a vacation trip, leave widows here. R. G. Williams had five children in Regina.

An inquest will be held, Constable M. McAlpine of the provincial police said.

A lookout is being kept for the bodies of the Regins since the waters where they were fishing are too swift for dragging operations, Constable McAlpine said.

The three men were fishing yesterday near Ripple Rock, where the tide sometimes runs at 15 knots, when their rowboat apparently capsized.

Fishermen on a passing halibut boat, the Prosperity A, captained by A. Christenson, New Westminster, saw the boat capsize and recovered Baldwin's body.

Campbell River is about 175 miles north of Victoria.

Day-long Raids On Northern France

R.A.F. Blasts Nazi Shipyard

LONDON (CP) — Royal Air Force heavy bombers, with a fighter escort, attacked the shipyard at Le Trait, west of Rouen on the German-occupied French coast, this morning, it was authoritatively reported. One German fighter was destroyed, it was said, and all the British planes returned.

Today's blows followed a continuation of the nightly attacks on the Rhineland district of Germany.

After a brief lull, the trans-Channel air "traffic" picked up sharply late in the afternoon until the drone of fighter and bomber engines became almost incessant.

Heat haze obscured most of the planes, but it was evident heavy attacks were in progress.

Details of the second daylight foray over northern France were not available except for early reports that at least six German fighters were destroyed.

Far-off Blasts Waken Kent People

English coast residents were awakened by a series of heavy explosions which appeared to emanate from the Calais and Boulogne districts. The blasts began shortly after last midnight and scores of British planes roared over the Channel in brilliant moonlight until just before dawn.

An observer at Deal described the attack as "one of the heaviest and longest bombardments of ports and objectives farther inland" since the start of the war. Terrific noise of bursting bombs and anti-aircraft fire made sleep impossible.

The raid slacked off just before 3 a.m. Then it was resumed with increased intensity, continuing until after 5 o'clock. This time the rumble of explosions appeared to come from far inland.

Cologne Plants Again Pounded

The Air Ministry said that in overnight attacks on Germany and occupied France, heavy war industries in Cologne and other objectives in the Rhineland were bombed. Large fires were started by the super-bombs and were seen clearly despite unfavorable weather conditions.

Docks at Ostend, Calais and Boulogne on the Channel coast also were attacked and great loads of bombs dropped. From these night operations two British planes were lost.

Nazi night raiders meanwhile concentrated on England's north-east coast.

Some damage and a number of casualties were reported from one coast town, but the Air Ministry said that elsewhere there was little damage and few casualties last night.

At least two of the raiders were

All-night Watch At Tolmie Fire

The Mount Tolmie grass and bush fire which was got under control at about 1.30 yesterday afternoon, two and a half hours after it started, broke away from Saanich firemen an hour later and kept them at the scene until this morning.

The fire, fanned by a southwest wind, covered about 12 acres. It started in the southwest corner of the mountain park and swept along the west side up to the crown of the hill and nearly over to Cedar Hill Cross Road.

It burned fiercely late in the afternoon and threatened several houses on the north side of the park.

Flames were extinguished by about midnight, but one truck and three firemen were kept at the scene all night guarding against it breaking out again. This morning the firemen were busy with sections which were still smouldering.

The first call to the mountain was received at 11.15 yesterday morning. One truck was sent at that time. A second truck was dispatched at 11.40. One returned to the station early in the afternoon but was sent out again after the flames had got out of control.

Many spectators, attracted to the scene by large clouds of smoke, assisted the firemen. They included a party of soldiers from the Gordon Head Camp.

Blacklist Firms Selling to Nazis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—United States defence officials, determined to end leakage of American goods to Germany, were reported giving serious consideration today to the compilation of a world-wide list of firms which serve as Nazi purchasing agents.

Britain is known to have a "blacklist," as such listings are called when prepared by belligerent governments, and presumably this information has been made available to American officials for such use as they desire.

Other sources of information understood to be at the disposal of Brig.-Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, export control chief, include an inventory being made by the treasury of foreign assets frozen in this country and data on Nazi activities in South America gathered by the office of commercial and cultural relations between the American republics.

The extent to which American manufactured supplies and raw materials—steel, oil and the like—may now be reaching Germany was not ascertainable. Several factors, however, lead officials to believe that the flow has been greatly curtailed.

In the first place, the hostilities between the Reich and Russia have had the effect of closing the Siberian back-door route for supplies to Germany. Furthermore, the United States has imposed export restrictions on most militarily valuable supplies in recent months, and simultaneously has been waging virtual economic warfare on suspected Axis agents in South America.

In Uniform for Duration

Trainees To Be Used For Defence Service

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA (CP)—Young Canadians graduating from four months' compulsory military training classes next week—they number 4,697—will remain in uniform as members of the reserve army and, officials say, this means they probably will be in service for Canada's defence for the duration of the war.

Defence Minister Ralston announced in April that training plan graduates would be kept in service to relieve units which might be transferred from duties they have held for many months, such as coastal defence, to operational theatres abroad.

The understanding here is that this system will be continued in respect to succeeding classes, including those embracing men who have already undergone 30 days' training and others of 21, 22, 23 and 24 years who will be called as required.

Men who were 21 years of age at July 1, 1940, and who took 30 days' training under the now abandoned short-term training plan, have already been notified by proclamation that they are liable to recall to complete an other three months' instruction.

TO SERVE WHERE NEEDED

Then, according to Col. Ralston's announcement, they are to be retained in service wherever they are needed in Canada to relieve men of the active army who have been employed in the Dominion.

Under the Dominion's compulsory training schedule, about 100,000 young Canadians have received instruction in the soldier's arts for use in the defence of the nation at home.

Of the class called out for the first four months' training period on March 20, those accepted in military districts designated by headquarters were as follows: London, Ont., 317; Toronto, 763; Kingston, Ont., 286; Montreal, 962; Quebec, 551; Halifax, 184; Saint John, 178; Winnipeg, 366; Victoria, 269; Regina, 466, and Calgary, 355.

RUSSIA TOO BIG, JAPS LOOK SOUTH

SHANGHAI (AP)—The Japanese government has decided to stay clear of the German-Russian war for the present, but may make a move against French Indo-China in the near future, reliable persons arriving here from Tokyo reported today.

These sources said the Japanese have been influenced in their policy by estimates that Russia still has 32 divisions on her Asiatic front, 12 of them mechanized, and despite the Russian-Japanese neutrality pact has moved but three divisions west. Fourteen of these divisions were said to be concentrated at Vladivostok, seven in outer Mongolia and the remainder near the Manchoukuo frontier.

Despite the intensity of the war in eastern Europe, it was reported that Russia still has a sizeable air force within easy range of Japan's vulnerable centres of population.

The Japanese are reported to have but 220,000 men in 12 divisions in Manchoukuo, only two of them mechanized.

'Like the Mississippi'

REPORTS THAT UNITED STATES TECHnicians and workers are engaged on a construction project of undisclosed nature in Northern Ireland are being variously interpreted. The British Foreign Office explains that such men are direct employees of the British government, that they had entered into employment "in the exercise of their perfectly legal right" to accept such occupation, and that speculation on the establishment by the United States of an air base in that part of the British Isles is "not borne out by information available."

Government officials in Belfast are naturally reluctant to discuss the subject; but Finance Minister John Barbour said today that while it is a matter for the British government, "there is not the slightest doubt that Americans would have a hearty welcome in what Home Secretary Herbert Morrison called this ferociously loyal part of the British Isles." To this the Northern Whig and Belfast Post adds that "the establishment of American bases (in Northern Ireland) may be nearer than is realized." And, incidentally, President Roosevelt announced in Washington this morning that he would not be surprised if American steel had gone into 50 British bases and if American workmen all over the world were being paid by the British government—"from Canada to South Africa and elsewhere."

In view of the fact that United States forces already are established in Iceland, further practical collaboration in the actual war zone by our friendly neighbor on the south is taken as a foregone conclusion, not only because the established policy of Washington permits of no half measures, but more especially because President Roosevelt and his colleagues do not intend either to leave convoys of Nazi submarines and long-range bombers, or to permit Hitler's forces to gain a foothold in any part of the Atlantic that would seriously menace the security of the Western Hemisphere. The garrisoning of Iceland by Americans, of course, can rightly be termed as the beginning of a new turn in the development of the conflict. It recalls
Mr. Churchill's reference in the House of Commons, nearly a year ago, to the bases-for-destroyers transaction, when he said:
"Undoubtedly this process means that these two great organizations of the English-speaking democracies, the British Empire and the United States, will have to be somewhat mixed up together in some of their affairs for mutual general advantage."

The British Prime Minister did not view this process with any misgivings; it was "like the Mississippi, it just keeps rolling along," and he hoped it would roll on full flood. "It to broader lands and better days." Whether the United States will soon find herself in a "shooting war" as her policy further unfolds, or whether Hitler will decide this issue by committing the overt act, must depend on the march of events. In any case, the men of Berlin and Rome are now realizing how foolish they were when they tried to laugh to scorn the implication and promise of the Lease-Lend Act.

Hanson and Willkie

MANY MOONS MAY WAX AND WANE
before Mr. Hanson will give the King government a clean bill of political health.
Parliamentary opposition leaders are not prone to the bestowal of compliments on the heads of administrations; for the most part they confine their attention to viewing with alarm practically everything a cabinet and its chief do or leave undone. The head of the federal Conservative Party in the House of Commons at Ottawa is no striking exception to the prevailing rule. Mr. Hanson says he is "surprised and rather amazed" to learn the Prime Minister is not going to London;
he is short on suggestions as to what Mr.
King might do better in the Empire's metropolis than he can do in Canada. But the opposition chieftain's complaint on this score differs little in its general tone from the grumbles originating with that small element which still is finding it difficult to recover from the shock of last year's election. It nevertheless emphasizes the paucity of logic from which some critics of the administration so obviously suffer.

Has it occurred to Mr. Hanson that there is nothing in the world to prevent him from going to London? Has he no regard for the example set by Mr. Wendell Willkie? True, the House leader of federal Conservatism did not take his party to the polls in March, 1940, but his followers elevated him to the position which defeat caused Dr. Manion to relinquish. In that role, moreover, Mr. Hanson enjoys an official position which ranks him relatively higher in his country's councils than the unsuccessful Republican candidate in last year's presidential campaign holds in the United States. It will be argued, of course, that our neighbor is not yet a belligerent and, consequently, the attitude Mr.
Willkie adopted almost on the morrow of his failure at the polls—and since—was a personal matter and not applicable to Mr. Hanson's official or private conduct. Well and good; but even the most impartial Canadian observer of the respective domestic political scenes noted with admiration the fine brand of sportsmanship which characterized Mr.

Willkie's reminder to Mr. Roosevelt's traducers that "he is my President now."

Granted that circumstances in Canada differ considerably from conditions in the United States as they relate to the war; yet it must be clear to the most partisan mind that Mr. Willkie was quick to recognize the voice of democracy when the people of the neighboring republic rendered their verdict last November. He admitted he did his best to defeat President Roosevelt; nothing less was expected of him by those who had obtained his nomination. But surely the manner of his acceptance of a popular verdict might at least suggest a similar course of action for Mr. Hanson. Unlike the Prime Minister, the leader of the opposition has no pressing matters demanding his attention;
a month in Britain, on the other hand, might enlarge his vision and enable him to give Mr.
King the benefit of knowledge gained—just as Mr. Willkie has assisted the President.
And, when the time is considered propitious, the Prime Minister may go to London to see for himself. In the meantime, two choices are open to Mr. Hanson: He can aid or hinder the government at Ottawa.

Calling Young Canada

NATIONAL UNITY IN CANADA WILL not be endangered so long as the majority of our people retain a sense of proportion such as the circumstances of these times demand. With this in mind—irrespective of divisions of opinion as to what form of military service should now, or at some date in the early future, be adopted—it would be well to note some of the more potent observations to which Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe gave voice at a recruiting rally in Ottawa last Tuesday night. They bring us back to a full realization that Canada, after all, is a democracy doing an excellent job for the practical philosophy which that term connotes.

The Minister of Justice expressed the view that young Canadians would show the world they do not have to be regimented to fight for their liberties. He might have explained that to suggest otherwise would be no compliment to the intelligence and patriotism of the youth of this country. Mr.
LaPointe put it this way:

"We are not at war with ourselves. We are fighting Germany—not Quebec, Ontario or Alberta. We cannot let Great Britain down, the sheer heroism of the British people has stood off Hitler's armies for a long time. What are young men going to do?
Surely they do not like to feel other men are flying the planes, sailing the ships and shooting the guns that will save their own country, families, liberties and themselves."

In the foregoing is a direct call to the young men of Canada whose enlistment in the armed forces of the Dominion would in no way jeopardize the essential production of more and more machines and equipment.
It ought to be reasonable to assume that it will meet with a quickening response. When the late Lord Roberts launched his campaign for compulsory military service in Great Britain more than 30 years ago—set forth in his "Fallacies and Facts"—one of the most telling phrases used to discourage his concept of conscription was that one volunteer was worth 10 "pressed men." Under the new form of warfare, where the tank and the airplane play so vital a part, Canadian volunteers should be forthcoming in sufficient numbers to man every machine our factories can produce as rapidly as they leave the assembly line.

Notes

Our engineers perform miracles, but are still building highways that don't curve when the nut driver does.

The threatened gasoline shortage might be worse. Suppose, for instance, we had two cars in every garage.

With no further opportunity to win $250,000 in an Irish sweep, how does any one go about it these days locating the long-lost relative?

Geoffrey Crowther, editor of the London
Economist, speaking in the eastern states, has sought to project the history of Britain beyond the flames of war. He has said that the "old school tie" tradition may die out as Britain seeks in its reconstruction to provide a public school system more genuinely public in its practice.

UNITED STATES AT THE CROSSROADS

From Ottawa Citizen
The odds may favor a quick German victory over Russia, but intervention by the United States could at once throw the balance over against the Nazis.

It is possible that United States intervention would stop the Japanese from entering the war on the side of Germany. After several years of costly war in China, even the most aggressive element in Tokyo would think twice before taking on the United States, Soviet Russia, Australia, New Zealand and the British and Dutch colonial forces from Singapore to Hongkong.

The United States is at the crossroads.
Active participation on the side of the de-mocracies before Hitler can finish the Russian adventure would almost surely turn the tide of battle. Another winter would perhaps see the end of the Nazi nightmare over Europe. The Nazi threat to American independence would disappear with the defeat of Germany.

Delayed action by the United States, on the other hand, until Germany has knocked out Soviet Russia, would assuredly leave this North American continent exposed to simultaneous pressure by Japan in the Pacific arena and Nazi forces in South America.
Hitler has to be defeated before the end of this Russian campaign. The democracies can win, but perhaps only with the active participation of the United States.

OLD MAN

BESIDE THE ROAD the other day I met an old man who inhabits a cabin along with a dog, some chickens and certain insects. And, sitting there at his door, he said:
"Something has happened to the world.
Not something temporary, like you read in the newspapers, but something very deep.
It is ugliness. People have the notion that America is ugly because its inhabitants can't be bothered to make it beautiful. This is entirely wrong. This shows a complete misunderstanding of the problem. If it were only that we might have some hope about our future. Alas, it is something much worse."

"America is ugly, its towns and cities are ugly, because it wants to be that way.
It is not a negative thing but a positive thing. It is a definite appetite and passion for ugliness. It is a yearning after ugliness.
It is a ravening for ugliness. It is a deep appetite for ugliness. That is why we haven't one beautiful city in America and hardly a beautiful town. We not only have lost the instinct of beauty, but we have developed a genius for ugliness. We work at it. We toil after it. We contrive ugliness in our buildings, our streets, our rooms.
You might say that the largest part of our income and our energy as a race are devoted to the construction and development of ugliness as an art."

UGLINESS

WE DON'T LACK ABILITY. Why, the most wonderful skill goes into the devising, construction and sale of ugliness on all sides. In the furniture business alone more genius is wasted in building ugly chairs and sofas than would be needed to rebuild the country. Architects sit up at night designing ugly buildings. Artists devoted their lives to building up hideous designs for furnishings. Painters lavish all their training on creating the most hideous color schemes. And here's the funny thing —in the end, people consider all these things beautiful. Nothing, for example is more ugly than the modern automobile, and yet it is regarded as a beautiful object because people worship ugliness.

"Now if this were merely a passing phase, a surface symptom, it would be of little importance. People can probably be as comfortable and sanitary in an ugly town as in a beautiful one. But the ugliness of the surface is merely a symptom of a very deep unhappiness underneath. We are ugly because we are miserable. That is the thing that counts. A happy people produce beautiful things, like a contented man growing flowers in a garden. But tortured people breed ugliness. You can look at a cathedral in England and be sure that the men who built it were full of happiness and faith even if they never took a bath. But look at a modern city of skyscrapers, or a modern village by the roadside, and you can see that the men who built them had no inward happiness and no faith in anything. The surest sign of paganism throughout the world is the modern building, the modern living-room, the modern style in women's shoes."

"From these things future generations will be able to see quite clearly that we were a people without faith, without hope and without real happiness. We are ugly, and that means we are without truth. You remember that Keats said that long ago—beauty is truth, truth beauty. We have neither the one nor the other and we don't want them."

I inquired at the nearest village along the Cariboo Road and everyone told me that the old man who spoke thus was quite mad and should be locked up. They said he spent his time painting pictures.

A SURGEON AND HIS SON

Dickie Parran, son of Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon-General of the United States, earns extra money by distributing Washington's newspapers every Sunday morning at 5.
Dickie became ill recently, and his condition was aggravated by the fact that he could find nobody to take over his newspaper route the next morning. And so at 5 on a rainy, Sunday morning, if the subscribers had been awake, they would have seen a dignified gentleman—the Surgeon-General of the United States—trudging through the Washington downpour, pulling a newspaper wagon, and delivering their Sunday papers.

ON THOUGHTS OF FREEDOM

It seems only yesterday
That I, in socks and sweater gay,
Went off to school.
Now I see other boys and girls
And envy them their youthful curls,
Their bare brown legs,
Their scrubbed sweet faces, their lack
Of any business graces.

Yesterday becurled, becurled sat I
At desk, eyes on blue bottle fly;
Not listening to the pedant.
Behind dreamy eyes my searching thought Wondered about these battles fought For Freedom dear,
For Life, Liberty and Happiness, these were
'Twould seem, an extra largess.

Now from behind another desk
I know full well the things at stake
When young men give up love.
Their homes, their gardens, girls and boys,
In these things lie all their joys;
We know not bombing, blood or lust,
So they go forth in war to die
For freedom-dreamers, you and I.

THEY LEAD CANADA

THE FIGURES SHOW that the Peace River country leads all Canada in numbers of men supplied to the armed forces, in proportion to total population.
From the northernmost fringe of Canadian civilization have come no less than 3,500 men, for the army, the navy, and the air force.
And they are men. I saw some of them climbing on the train at Grande Prairie, not long ago, while their women folk were waving a lot and weeping a little, from the platform.

Last week 112 more hard young men came out to serve Canada and humanity from that one district alone. The cynic may say: "economic conditions.
No market for wheat, and no other jobs for them." But that is certainly not the whole story.
Up in that north country they say the men are men. There is a lot in it. Take the case of Private Garbette:

Garbette is a member of the Metis colony, near Keg River.
That probably means that he has in his veins both French-Canadian and good Indian blood.
These fellows, as our history books show, are doughty fighters with a passionate love of liberty.

Garbette and two pals had arranged to travel by boat from Tompkins Landing to Peace River, a distance of 216 miles, in order to join up before the departure of the recruiting party.
Delayed, Garbette missed the boat. Not to be beaten so easily, the young man rode horseback for 32 miles to Paddle River.
Thence he walked 20 miles to Keg River, hoping to connect with some kind of transportation to get him south in time. But there was no such luck, so Gar-bette just kept on walking.

In two nights and one day of almost continuous walking, with nothing but a pocket lunch, and no sleep, Garbette covered the 100 miles on foot. At Notkewin he did succeed in catching the mail truck, and got to Peace River only three hours after his companions who had made the trip by boat up the mighty Peace.

Passed as category A, he's in the army now. And if I were in this one, as in the last, I would feel very comfortable if I had around me, especially on a dark night with a lot of Germans out in front, a good gang of hard Canadians, exactly like Garbette.

For in the two days in which Garbette made his trip it was raining almost all the time. The trip itself involved crossing the Third Battle River, across which is no bridge, where the current is very strong and the water breast-deep.

THEY WANT LEADERS

There is no greater libel than to suggest that this young generation of Canadians is cowardly.

The voluntary recruiting campaign has failed not because the army is too dangerous, but because the army life has been too dull.

That may change overnight, especially if the British armies commence large-scale raids on the coast of continental Europe, and Canadians get a chance to do something else than train to fight.

The best proof that the youngsters are anything but cowards is that the Air Force, where the death rate is highest, and will certainly continue to be, can literally get scads of recruits. It can get now, and has always been able to get, thousands and thousands more men than it is as yet able to handle.

The real reason why conscric-tion is necessary is that the vast majority of young Canadians regard the army duty as a sort of dirty job that somebody has to do. Mr. King's Prince Albert speech clearly shows that he has discovered that to be the sentiment of the vast majority of young men in western Canada.
But what is also clear is that he does not understand that they are completely sincere when they say they are waiting for conscric-tion. They are not stalling.
They mean it. They consider it the only fair way.

Meanwhile, self-starters like Private Garbette of Peace River have as much to teach the government itself as they have their young fellow Canadians.

A BITE FOR THE CAT

From Leeds Mercury

A York colleague tells me that while taking a stroll along the banks of the Ouse not far from Bishopthorpe Palace the other evening, he saw a man and wife patiently fishing from the West Riding bank.

After sitting near by for some time, and noticing that sport seemed bad, he took his leave, saying that he hoped they would soon get a bite. "I hope so, too," said the wife, "otherwise the cat will be unlucky, for we are fishing for his supper."

bassador to Vichy.

Women's Stockings Changed By War

By FLORENCE ELLIOTT
TORONTO — "What will the wartime stockings be like? Will they be rayon? How will they look? Are they wearable? Can we get them in all shades and sizes? How much will they cost? Wouldn't it help the war effort more if we wore cotton instead of silk?"

These and countless others were the questions fired at manufacturers of full-fashioned hosiery by a representative group of Canadian newspaperwomen, magazine editors and radio columnists at a luncheon here recently. The fashion writers, like all Canadian women, had been wondering what was happening to silk stockings now that silk imports had been reduced to conserve foreign exchange. All of them had noticed that stockings purchased recently had had other materials than silk in the tops and feet.

COMPOSITE YARN
The new Canadian wartime hosiery, according to present plans at least, is a mixture of real silk and rayon. These types of stockings are going into production in Canadian mills now, but it will be some months yet before they become the general hose item on the market. Lisle is also used and continues to play its part in the tops and feet. In the "mixture" stockings fine filaments of real silk are twisted with filaments of the best available rayon to produce a "composite yarn" and this yarn is used for knitting the leg panels of the hose.

The new stockings are both attractive and serviceable, for Canadian manufacturers intend to uphold their reputation as the makers of the world's finest full-fashioned hosiery.

One minor difference, it was pointed out, is to be seen in the washing of the mixtures. Some artificial fibres become weakened when wet, so extra care must be taken to avoid rough handling or wringing of the new types.

PRICE THE SAME
Women won't need to worry about prices going up—present indications at least are that they will continue to be available in the usual brands and sizes at the usual price.

As for sacrificing full-fashioned hosiery entirely—far from aiding the war effort it would mean increasing unemployment and the loss of millions of dollars to the government, not only from tax revenue paid by the 28 hosiery mills in the Dominion, but from the war savings that are being invested in by the 7,000 hosiery workers in these plants. The high precision machinery in these mills can be used for only one purpose—the manufacture of women's fine stockings—and causing them to stand idle would be a definite economic loss to the country.

This use of Canadian rayon to reduce silk consumption is an example of how an industry can co-operate with the government to help the war effort; cheerful acceptance of the new types of hose will be the Canadian women's opportunity to help.

BRITLAND—MAJOR
VANCOUVER — At a smart wedding Tuesday evening at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Flight Lieutenant Rev. F. K. Belton, R.C.A.F., read the marriage service for Nona Pauline Major of West Vancouver and L.A.C. George Douglas Britland, R.C.A.F., Patricia Bay. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Major of Cypress Park, West Vancouver, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Britland of Vancouver.

Delicate and lovely was the bride's billowing white net gown caught at the sweetheart neckline by two brilliant clips. An embroidered net veil misted about her shoulders from a cluster of three gardenias, and she carried shell pink carnations, white sweet peas and roses.

She was preceded up the aisle by her two sisters, Mrs. C. Coleman and Miss Loraine Dorothea Major. Whispering blue taffeta with pink trim and bolero jacket fashioned the former's gown and she carried an armful of two-toned roses. Her sister was in peachbloom taffeta with blue for get-me-nots and velvet ribbon for trimming and her colonial bouquet was harmonizing. Both wore halos to match their frocks.

Sergeant Walter Britland, R.C.A.F., was best man and Lionel Britland, R.C.A.F., was usher, while Mr. Davis played the wedding music and Mr. Gerald Britland sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

A reception followed at the York Room of Hotel Georgia when Mrs. Major in a sunset rose redingote with printed sheer frock and navy accessories greeted guests, assisted by Mrs. Britland, who wore a mist blue frock with navy accents.

Following a honeymoon to Flying U Ranch, the couple will live at Patricia Bay, Vancouver Island. For traveling the bride wore a blue ensemble with deeper toned topcoat and white accents.

Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, united in marriage Muriel Dorothy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shuckburgh, Stettler, Alta., and Mr. Charles W. Twite, of the teaching staff of Shawinigan Lake School for Boys, only son of Mrs. H. L. Twite, Falmouth, Cornwall, England, and the late Mr. Twite.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Trevor Shuckburgh, the bride wore a navy blue frock with matching jacket and a wide-brimmed white hat. Her shoulder bouquet was composed of white carnations and white heather. Mr. J. Y. Copeman was best man.

After the service a small reception for a few intimate friends was held, the bride and groom leaving by motor for a honeymoon trip up the island. They will make their home for the summer at Constant Spring Farm, Cowichan Station, V.I.

Hall were joint hostesses on Wednesday evening at a kitchen shower at the home of the latter, 1414 Harrison Street, in honor of Miss Florence Malcolm, whose marriage to Mr. Ian Jack takes place on Saturday evening. On her arrival, Miss Malcolm was presented with a corsage of pink sweet peas. The gifts were attractively arranged with clothes pegs in a unique fashion on an adjustable clothes line in the living-room. A guessing contest was enjoyed, Miss Ethelwynne Malcolm being the winner. Later, refreshments were served from a prettily-decorated table with a lace cloth and dainty centrepiece of pink sweet peas and four tiny kewpies dressed in pink and green paper holding tiny parasols. Green tapers in silver holders completed the arrangement. Mrs. A. Wollett presided at the table. The invited guests were: Mesdames Gavin Jack, R. C. Malcolm, T. F. Huzzey, H. W. Hall, A. Comforts Reach British Seamen

The Victoria depot, Royal Naval War Comforts Committee (of the Admiralty), has received a letter from Miss D. K. Ingleby, Missions to Seamen, Wimbledon, who says:

"We have received another very welcome package from Commander Drummond, being the rest of our share of the contents of cases Nos. 13 and 14 from you; the contents were: 10 scarfs, 18 pairs Mellor gloves, 20 sweaters, 20 pairs wristlets, 1 blanket. All these will be very useful, and we are very grateful to you and your knitters for sending us this continual supply of good things for the seamen. The woollens have gone to our institute at Hull, and the Mellor gloves to Bristol. They will be very welcome at both places, and I know our chaplains will be very glad to have them. I acknowledge the remainder of this consignment in my previous letter, as it arrived a few days before the present one, the consignment having come in two parcels. It contained 20 pairs seaboot stockings, 10 pairs Indian socks, and 36 pairs Mellor gloves. Will you please give our best thanks to your knitters for all these very useful gifts, and our renewed congratulations to the Mellor glove makers for their very good work. Everything will soon be away on active service and will be very much appreciated by the men who receive it."

The chaplain, Rev. J. A. French, of the Hull branch of the Missions to Seamen, writes on June 4 to Major Longstaff:

"I wish to thank you very much indeed for the most acceptable consignment of woollen comforts that you sent to our head office (Wimbledon) who forwarded them on to us. You have little idea how pleased we were to get them, as between those who lost all their gear at sea and those who lost it by land, owing to the blitz, we looked at our depleting stocks with some anxiety! Now, however, thanks to you, all is well, and we will be able to carry on again without anxiety; but 150,000 comforts take some restocking."

For the information of knitters who wish to join the depot, parcels of woollen comforts should be left at the Victoria Book and Stationery Company Ltd., 1002 Government Street, from where they are collected on Saturdays for sorting, parceling and packing in cases. It is regretted that some knitters do not put their name and address on or in the parcels, as this prevents proper records being kept in the books of the depot. All the names and addresses are treated in confidence, so no worker need fear publicity, but the depot staff do wish to keep records of the work done by each worker or group of workers.

Quits Floating Camp

MRS. NORA BINGHAM, 21, who has lived in floating logging communities along British Columbia's rugged coast for the past seven months, is back to "civilization."

With her husband, Peter, 24, of the firm of Bingham and Hobbs, which supplies logging equipment, Mrs. Bingham is back in Vancouver, where she hopes to set up a "home on land."

At any rate the big float which held the Bingham's home, together with bunkhouses for the men working the logging claims, a caterpillar tractor, donkey engine, a meat shed and a lot of other equipment, is expected to be dismantled in the calm waters of False Creek within the next few days.

They were at Yuculta Rapids. "The country is lively up-coast but I don't like the water," said Mrs. Bingham.

Iceland News Ban Temporary

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt has decided that United States newspapermen must remain out of Iceland until occupation of the island by United States forces is completed. Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, said Mr. Roosevelt felt that "for the time being that is a purely military program." Once the occupation is effected and conditions permit, he said, there might be no objection to permitting representatives of the three major U.S. press services and photographers for news syndicates to proceed to Iceland. Any American correspondents now in Iceland will be allowed to remain there.

'Ty Colwyn' Tea Aids Air Raid Victims

The Queen's Fund for air raid victims will be substantially augmented as a result of the tea given by Dr. and Mrs. J. Brown at their home, "Ty Colwyn," Sooke, on Wednesday afternoon.

Tea was served in the dining-room from a large table centred with sweet peas in plum shades in a crystal bowl. Tear-drop crystal candle holders on mirrors with blue candles were placed at either end of the table. Assorted flowers in plum shades arranged throughout the dining-room completed the charming arrangement. Tea was also served on the veranda, where the long tea table was covered with a yellow cloth and centred with flame gladioli in an old Egyptian hammered brass bowl. Flame gladioli were also arranged in the living-room, where the lovely old French vase, given by Mrs. E. W. Hamber, was on display.

A game of darts, a fishpond, home cooking stall and a candy stall all proved popular, and assisted materially to swell the proceeds.

SOLDIERS BARRED FROM CHINATOWN

NANAIMO (CP)—Brig. O. M. Martin, officer commanding Camp Nanaimo, last night placed Nanaimo's chinatown "out of bounds" to soldiers from the camp.

Brig. Martin, who made the closure order at the request of Pei Chun Yu, acting Chinese consul at Vancouver, said the order was routine and that similar orders had placed a number of premises around Nanaimo out of bounds to prevent soldiers getting into trouble.

The acting Chinese consul's request to close chinatown to soldiers followed a Saturday night assault on Lee Yuen, Chinese cook from Chemsains, who was robbed of $35 by three men.

Three soldiers from Camp Nanaimo are in custody charged with robbery with violence and will appear for trial July 15.

Brig. Martin, in commenting on the closure order, said he did not see any reason why enlisted men should have business in the Chinese quarter of the city, but pointed out that an attack by robbers might occur on any thoroughfare and that outlawing of a particular district in connection with such charges could not possibly be conclusive.

4. If a small child doesn't say "Thank you" when given a present should his parent prompt him, or thank the giver for the child?

'Course, can't you tell? Years of laboratory research have made Macleans Peroxide Tooth Paste one of the safest and most efficient dentifrices known. It was originated in the United States in 1917 and made its advent in Canada in the year 1920. In the last 21 years the organization has expanded, until today there are 143 clubs in the Dominion. Lions' service activities, Dr. Spankie stated, included help in the community for boys and girls, the betterment of health conditions, aid to the blind, community help and civic improvement. In the postwar years, the speaker concluded, Lions must act with other service clubs in the promotion of human reconstruction and rehabilitation and the promotion of higher standards of living and higher ideals.

Bagpiper Told To Go Back to Hills

VANCOUVER (CP) — Piper John Sutherland was told to "take your bagpipes back to the hills, they sound better there anyhow," when Police Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson dismissed a charge of obstructing a police officer against the 52-year-old Scot who came here several months ago from Toronto. The charge was laid after west end residents had complained to police that Sutherland was marching up and down the street playing his pipes in front of their houses. When a constable told him to stop he asserted that "under the British North America Act" he was entitled to play anywhere, and kept right on piping. "I wasn't in trouble with the police in Toronto," Sutherland said. "This is the only city I have ever been in where I have been stopped playing my pipes." "Perhaps they have more music-loving people there," the magistrate answered.

Major Steele Dead

WINNIPEG (CP) — Major Sunley Gordon Hayward Steele, M.C., 43, serving in the Canadian army overseas, died on active service, according to word received by his widow, Mrs. Alice A. Steele, of suburban St. Vital. Major Steele was born at Hascomb, Surrey, and came to Winnipeg in 1912. He served with the Royal Leicestershire Regiment during the first Great War and won the M.C. at the battle of Cambrai in 1917. Following the war he returned to Manitoba, where he remained until going overseas with the Canadian active service force in October, 1940.

R.C.A.F. Needs Cooks

The Royal Canadian Air Force needs cooks. R.C.A.F. officers said young men between the ages of 23 and 30, who have high school entrance education and willing to be trained as cooks, will be accepted immediately for that branch of the service. Experienced cooks between the ages of 30 and 45 years also will be enlisted at once. The officers pointed out that the young men need have no experience in cooking. They will be given a special training course in that line.

Knew Men on Hood, Praise for Navy

Private Ernest E. Allen of the P.C.C.I., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Allen, 1125 Yates Street, has been in England for some time now, a letter being recently received by his parents in which he tells of the disaster that befell H.M.S. Hood. To the writer the sinking had more than ordinary significance. He writes: "Wasn't that a terrible disaster, the sinking of the battleship Hood and all her crew. While I was on leave in Glasgow, Scotland, last February, I met and chummed around with two young Scotch fellows who were sailors on her. They were two of the nicest chaps I've ever known, and both being Glasgow boys they showed me all over the city and the best was none too good when we were out. Both had been out at sea for some time and had quite a bit of money when they landed and every place we went and everything bought was the best. "The four days I was with them were days never to be forgotten. They hired a taxicab and went up the "High Road" and back down the "Low Road." Both roads run along Loch Lomond. The famous Scottish mountain, Ben Lomond, comes right down to the lake. We saw them all. "We used to correspond and I had a letter from one of them just a short time ago. It's hard to realize now that they are both gone." Later, he goes on to say, "The air force plays a good part in this war but it is the navy that is the backbone of the nation and the one that feeds us and keeps us going. And when those poor devils get into action they have no trench to crawl into for protection nor a parachute to come down in—they've got nothing but the hungry sea to look to for mercy."

"Could you transfer my husband to the intelligence department? He writes such uninteresting letters!"

Soldiers Now Receive Fine Dental Care

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Dental Corps—as an instrument in maintaining the health of Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen and reducing war expenditures during and after the conflict—was described yesterday by Col. F. M. Lott, director of dental services, before a House of Commons subcommittee on war expenditures. Col. Lott said practically every Canadian recruit required dental care, and in one representative group of 50,000 recruits an average of seven dental operations was required. In the first great war, the dental corps was responsible for a 10 per cent increase in enlistments by providing dental care. In France between 2,000 and 5,000 men were off duty each day looking for dental officers. Col. Lott said the modern Canadian Dental Corps, represented less than 1 per cent of the army personnel and prevented the loss of a far greater number of men to the fighting services. "Every man entering the Canadian army is documented and a record of his dental condition is maintained," said Col. Lott. "Because of this documentary system, Canada may be saved from paying a pension at some later date."

Canadian Nurses Enjoy Fine Home

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—On the beautiful country estate of an English tea merchant, the Canadian army has established a leave home where Canadian nursing sisters can find relaxation from hospital duties. The estate was turned over to the Canadians by Col. and Mrs. Kenneth Maitland in gratitude to Canada, where three of their four children now are living, safe from air-raid terrors. Col. Maitland is the leading executive of a huge English tea concern. The children are at a school near Montreal. Thirty-five nurses can be accommodated at one time and they have the run of the large mansion and the 75 acres of land surrounding the houses. The Maitlands have turned over the whole house to the nurses, fixing up rooms over the garage for their own use. Mrs. Maitland acts as chief hostess. The home was officially opened by the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London and Mrs. Massey. Sister A. J. MacLeod of Edmonton was present at the ceremony.

Prisoner Questioned On Seattle Killings

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP)—Chief criminal deputy prosecutor Charles Ralls of Seattle came here today and questioned a prisoner, held in the county jail, who resembles the "mad killer" who shot to death one man, wounded two other persons and terrorized the north end of Seattle June 23. Ralls and other Seattle officials believe, however, the man, a former Seattle resident, is not the fugitive. Sheriff Gordon Nicks, who took the man into custody for a sanity investigation, said he is 25 years of age, but that his hair was powdered to make it appear grey. He said his description checked closely with that of the Seattle slayer.

Kenny Lindsay Battles Gaudes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Matchmaker Bud Davies of Vancouver, said last night that the Canadian bantamweight title will go on the block here July 17 when Johnny Gaudes of Toronto meets Kenny Lindsay, Vancouver, in a 10-round bout in the new open-air arena. Davies said the Vancouver Boxing Commission sanctioned the title bout yesterday after he pointed out that Eddie Petrin, Montreal, current titleholder, had no legal claim to the championship. Davies said Petrin, who recently was knocked out by Nels Broadhead of Hamilton, Ont., in a non-title bout, was awarded the title after a scheduled six-round bout, and that no title can be won in other than a 10-round match. At the commission meeting yesterday it was conceded that Gaudes is No. 1 contender in the east and Lindsay the best in the west and stated they would recognize the winner as Canadian bantamweight champion.

Bummy Davis Has Bad Sinus Ailment

NEW YORK (AP)—Al (Bummy) Davis, New York welterweight boxer and private in the 69th Coast Artillery stationed at Camp Hulen, Tex., is in a satisfactory condition, but suffering from a chronic sinus, officials at the Fort Jay Hospital on Governors Island said yesterday. Davis, knocked out by Fritz Zivic in the 10th round July 2, was taken to Fort Jay Tuesday from King's County Hospital, which he had entered for treatment for facial injuries and pains in his head.

Fire Laws Bring Police Court Fines

Two residents of Saanich were fined in municipal police court yesterday under fire laws of the district. One resident was fined $20 by Magistrate H. C. Hall for having a quantity of ashes in his basement and another was fined $10 for lighting a bonfire without having a permit.

A $10 fine was paid by a Chinese gardener 81 Shelbourne Street who pleaded guilty to using water for irrigation during prohibited hours. The Chinese said he had forgotten to turn off two sprinklers.

A Hindu, resident of Roderick Street, charged with keeping goats in a dwelling house and also having more goats in his possession than allowed by municipal by-law, was remanded until next week to give him a chance to get rid of some of the animals.

A resident was remanded a week when he pleaded not guilty to a charge of keeping a dangerous dog which was alleged to have bitten a woman on July 8.

A motorist was fined $15 for having inadequate brakes on his truck and another was fined $10 for not having license plates.

Letters to the Editor

HOW ABOUT SOLDIERS?

During the last day or so quite a great deal has been said in the newspapers regarding a cost of living bonus to be given to railway employees. Civic employees are asking a similar bonus. I am a soldier's wife, living on the meagre allowance which the government allows me. But if a bonus is granted to people who are receiving more than I am, why does not the government consider the wives and dependents of men on active service? The cost of living is going up just the same for us as it is for everyone else, but no thought is given to an increase of our allowance. Our husbands cannot go on strike for more wages, but have to put up with what they originally signed for, despite increased living costs.

RAT EXPERIMENTS

A "brilliant" scientist thinks that he may unearth certain causes of human breakdown by silly experiments on rats. Unusual situations are created to see how the poor little beasts will behave. Poor human mind that thinks cruel and stupid experiments will elucidate human problems!

The causes of upsets to human minds are intricate, far-reaching and often undiscoverable, and certainly have no connection with induced laboratory torture of animals, which have not the same problems to consider. Who pays for such ridiculous procedures? The public cannot benefit and the perpetrators of such errors are only setting up conditions for which they themselves must some day suffer. Some "scientists," however sympathetic their undertakings may appear, usually have a personal and ulterior motive.

SHOULD PREMIER KING GO TO BRITAIN?

The answer to this question would seem to be "No".

1. The greatest battle of the Empire is more likely to be in Canada than in Britain.

2. If and when Russia is defeated, Germany can send huge armies to the Behring Straits, only about 25 miles from Alaska.

3. There is no great British navy in the Behring Straits to stop Hitler as in the English Channel.

4. There is no great British army in Alaska or northern Canada to stop Hitler as in Britain.

5. Hitler's march on Canada would be a much simpler affair than the attack on Britain.

6. Hitler has always attacked, by surprise, the weakest while bluffing at the strongest positions.

7. Unless Premier King intends to resign, go to England and devote his time to the British government, he should stay at home and prepare to defend Canada against the attack from the north in case of Russia being subdued.

8. Japan would not doubt render assistance to Germany in case of such an attack if requested by Germany.

9. Germany also has control, through France, of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon at the eastern gates of Canada.

10. Canadians should be a step ahead instead of behind Hitler, as in the case of Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Norway and Russia.

11. Conscription must come in Canada and Premier King is the man to bring it into operation.

12. It is said that the French-Canadians oppose conscription. One hundred and eighty-two years ago the French-Canadians were a conquered people. It surely cannot be that the conquered people have not become the masters of Canada.

MAELSTROM

There appeared in your columns a criticism of the above pamphlet. Since then letters have come to hand, some in commendation, but others even more severe than Mr. Ball's, though critical on different grounds. The most violent of these, a series of eight or nine, came from a distinguished advocate of Determinism, who could not restrain his anger at the author's believing in free-will and consequently freedom. This he classed with the outpourings of both Nazis and ecclesiastics, alike anathema to him; and, in the true spirit of Hitler himself, he declared that the booklet should be burned. All these were private communications and have been privately dealt with.

But Mr. Ball's letter is another matter, for it appeared in the public press. Three criticisms were made:

The first was that it is too late in the day to be reminded of Mr. Chamberlain's derelictions now that he is dead. But "the evil that men do lives after them." Munich and its after-effects still overhang us like a cloud, even though their author has passed away.

The next comment, that it is now out-of-date to scarify working conditions; that today the poor man does get a fair deal, is open to question. But whether it be true or not, it is not to the point, and does not affect my real defence, namely, that I was tracing the origins and spread of chaos and the cruelties involved. Certainly, the cruelty incidental to the machine age could not be entirely omitted in a picture of the growth of evil in the world. It was in line with what we have before our eyes today. The factory owners in their day were as regardless of human life and happiness as Hitler or the Sadist, Franco, in our own times.

Third, Mr. Ball charged me with error in taxing Christianity with having been unethical. He quoted, appositely enough, the words: "Love thy neighbor." But my accusation had been made, not against Christian theory, but Christian practice. If only the churches for these 2,000 years had practiced what they preached! As things have actually been, my accusation stands.

'Conscription Coming'—Hanson

CALGARY (CP)—Hon. R. B. Hanson, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, said in an interview here today that there will be conscription in Canada—but "the trouble is it may come too late."

Mr. Hanson on his arrival here in the course of a tour of western Canada said the Liberal government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King had already accepted the principle of conscription in the National Mobilization Act.

The Prime Minister will take the final step, the Conservative leader added, there was no question about that, but rather "when will it be in time?"

"If the welfare and the safety of the nation demands that conscription should be implemented, then it must be brought in," said the Conservative leader. "The responsibility rests squarely on the shoulders of the government, and it is up to it to shoulder that responsibility and to face the issue squarely."

Mr. Hanson told reporters that on his trip from Ottawa he has seen public opinion more and more crystallizing in favor of conscription.

"The public," he said, "has seen the results of the national recruiting campaign, and the public is coming to realize more and more clearly that Canada's war effort must be an all-out effort."

Mr. Hanson, who is on a tour for the B.C. coast with several Conservative members of Parliament from eastern Canada to learn the views of the west on Dominion questions, remained in Calgary today, and tonight will drive to Banff, where he will spend the week-end.

Jobless Insurance Key Men Trained

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 40 newly-appointed key members of the staff of the unemployment insurance commission will arrive in Ottawa this week-end from various points across Canada to take two weeks' training in the administration of unemployment insurance and the new national employment service.

The groups include regional superintendents, regional insurance officers, assistant regional superintendents, assistant supervising inspectors, senior employment and claims office managers and assistants, and senior staff members of the Ottawa employment and claims office.

Senior officers of the commission's headquarters at Ottawa are in charge of the school and will conduct most of the classes. Dr. Bryce M. Stewart, Deputy Labor Minister, will speak on "The Part of an Unemployment Service in a War Program." Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, has been asked to present "labor's attitude toward the employment service."

The school will study how to operate employment and claims offices economically and efficiently. These local offices will be the common meeting ground for employers and workers by enabling employers who are seeking workers to contact workers who are seeking jobs.

Those who receive training at this school will return home to organize and train staffs for the new employment and claims offices.

15 Men Lose Lives In Welsh Mine

GLAMORGAN, Wales (CP)—Fifteen coal miners were killed last night in an explosion at the Rhigos colliery near Neath in Glamorganshire. The blast caused several workings to collapse.

Nearly 70 men were working in the pit when the explosion, cause unknown, occurred a mile inside the colliery. Rescue parties, hindered by the collapsed workings, fought through terrific heat to the scene of the accident.

Injured miners brought to the surface were treated on the ground under moonlight until an improved hospital was established on a nearby farm. The dead include a 14-year-old boy, hired a few hours before the explosion.

Naples Again Bombed

ROME (AP)—British planes bombed Naples last night, the second night in a row, the Italian high command announced today.

The raid lasted nearly three hours and, according to the communiqué, caused "much damage to civilian dwellings." No mention was made of industrial and military damage.

WALTER HAGEN and Gene Sarazen are at Denver for the United States Professional Golfers' Association championship which stresses their greatness.

The Haig's winning of this title four years in a row, 1924-1927, after taking it in 1921, perhaps is the greatest feat in the history of golf.

The P.G.A., with its withering rounds of match play between sharpshooters at the peak of their profession, is the most difficult of all tournaments to capture.

One bad round and out you go. There is no picking up the slack in later rounds.

Leo Diegel and his pendulum putt had the distinction of stopping Hagen's four-year reign after the game's most colorful figure had won 22 consecutive matches.

Closest to Hagen's record in victories is Sarazen, who prevailed in 1922, 1923 and 1933. The Squire of Brookfield, incidentally, is the only player ever to bag the U.S. Open and P.G.A. the same season—1922, when he was 20.

Sarazen has participated in 20 P.G.A. championships, which is a better mark for attendance than that of any other contestant. In the course of that span, the little Italian has knicked off with 44 matches, four games more than Hagen.

Sarazen repulsed Hagen at the 38th hole in the 1923 final in one of the competition's more dramatic matches. He crossed a dangerous elbow of the green to get a birdie and the match with one of the finest shots ever executed.

Sarazen and Henry Picard contributed the outstanding match a year ago, when Byron Nelson took the major prize. Sarazen defeated Picard, 1 up. Picard was 3 down with three to play and finished with as many birdies, but Sarazen prevailed by halving the final hole with a remarkable shot after Picard placed an iron 10 inches from the cup.

Run $25,000 Derby

Staretor Big Choice

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Staretor should win the $25,000 Hollywood Derby tomorrow, and it doesn't take a mixture of witch magic, midnight oil and three recent editions of the racing form to arrive at that momentous conclusion.

As the leading member of the national Whirlaway victim lodge, Staretor goes postward as the solid choice of most of the experts in the mile-and-a-quarter fixture.

You'll remember that Whirlaway was able to whip Staretor but once—an accomplishment based, no doubt, on the fact that Staretor and the long-tailed comet from Calumet met but once.

Racing against the Hugh S. Nesbitt colt will be a field small, select and, going on past records, made up almost entirely of C. S. Howard's colt, Bortor's Cap. The Cap is another charter member of the N.W.V.L., having had the pleasure of twice running fourth to Mr. Wright's champion.

There will be others in the with Nelson and his birdie 3 on the 37th to win in 1939 was the most phenomenal final scoring in the championship.

Harold McSpaden holds the record for extra-hole matches in one championship. Jug McSpaden played three sudden-death engagements in 1937 in Pittsburgh. He turned back Bunny Torpey of Kansas City in the second round after two extra holes and eliminated Picard in the fourth after three extra holes, the 39th of the match. But he lost to Denny Shute at the 37th of the final.

Paul Runyan traveled the shortest distance any champion did in winning when he annihilated Samuel Jackson Snead, 8 and 7 in the 1938 final.

That match well illustrated that even in a game as meticulous as golf, form frequently can be chucked right out the window.

Joe DiMaggio's record-breaking consecutive-game hitting streak has netted the New York Yankees more than $75,000, not to mention the other clubs.

It will be worth vastly more than that before the last shot is fired, for there is every evidence that it has put the New Yorks on the high road to another world series with rich gates all along the route.

Yankees once more are baseball's most magnetic attraction, DiMaggio the biggest individual draw.

Philadelphia had a gathering of 8,107 on a Friday, which is practically phenomenal, and 13,604 on Saturday.

No fewer than 31,000 watched DiMaggio tie George Sisler's modern mark of 41 in the first half of a Sunday doubleheader in Washington and crack it in the nightcap.

Upward of 60,000 rooted for him as he dropped up Wee Willie Keeler's all-time top of 44 in a doubleheader with the Red Sox at Yankee Stadium and belted it out of the books the following afternoon with a towering home run.

DiMaggio's skein probably was responsible for half the attendance.

American All-Stars Win

When Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox left fielder, hit a home run in the 9th inning of the All-Star baseball game at Detroit, he clinched a win for the American League team, 7 to 5. Above, Stan Hack, 6, Chicago Cub's third baseman, slides into second as Umpire William Grieve calls him out. Hack was caught in a double play when Rudy York, Detroit first baseman, stopped a grounder by Pete Reiser. Joe Cronin, Boston, makes the tag.

DiMaggio Rolls On

Gordon's Homer Wins

Slugging Joe DiMaggio got his blow "in fust" when New York Yankees edged out a 1 to 0 American League victory over St. Louis Browns last night, and it was a lucky thing for him he did. Rain halted the proceedings at the end of the fifth inning, but the powerful New York outfielder had bashed out a single in the first frame to stretch his all-time record of hitting safely to 49 consecutive games.

In his only other time at bat, in the fourth inning, DiMaggio flied to Chuck Laabs.

Spectacular as DiMaggio's safety was in its implications, the prize blow of the game was a circuit clout by Joe Gordon, his 13th of the year, which gave the Yanks the game and ran their winning streak to 10 straight. Lefty Gomez marked up his seventh victory of the season in allowing five scattered hits.

They had a "Bob Feller Night" in Cleveland, where 40,000 fans turned out to watch their hero chalk up his 17th victory of the year in defeating Philadelphia 3 to 2. Rapid Robert made sure of his triumph by scoring the winning run when he tripled in the ninth inning and came home on a single by Lou Boudreau. It was the 99th victory of his major league career.

Robert received the Sporting News scroll as "player of 1940" from William Feller, his father, in a ceremony before the game. He also was given a plaque by more than 4,000 of the city's sandlot stars.

In the other American League nightcap, Washington Senators lost the opener of a series against Chicago White Sox 5 to 1. Outfielder Julius Solters drove in three runs with a double with the bases loaded, and a single.

Brooklyn Dodgers, pacesetters in the National League, downed Cincinnati Reds 8 to 3 as Kirby Higbe held the Reds to five hits for his 12th victory of the season against six defeats. Ducky Medwick smacked out a homer, his 10th of the year.

In one of those oddities that occasionally crop up in major ball, St. Louis Cardinals bested New York Giants 13 to 9 with a five-run outburst in the eighth inning after they had thrown an eight-run lead to the winds in the seventh.

The Cards ended a five-game losing streak with the oddity, Howard Krist, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, finishing out the game to take credit for the victory. The Giants banged out three homers, the Cards two, and the latter also combed four New York hurlers for 17 blows.

A night game at Philadelphia blew up in the Phillies' faces when Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind to beat them 6 to 3 with a five-run, eight-inning outburst. Tommy Hughes had pitched five-hit ball for the Phillies up to the eighth.

Boston Braves went down 3 to 1 before Chicago Cubs and Vern Olsen's seven-hit pitching. It was Olsen's sixth victory of the season, and he made sure of it by singling in the seventh to drive in Babe Dahlgren with one of the winning runs.

COAST LEAGUE

The thing which most interests Seattle baseball fans at present is the way their Rainiers and the San Diego Padres are whittling at the Coast League lead of the Sacramento Solons.

Today the Rainiers are only nine and a half games behind the Senators for two reasons. They defeated the Portland Beavers in

ADANACS VICTORS

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—New Westminster Adanacs came from behind with a last-period surge to edge out their intracity rivals, New Westminster Salmonbellies, 16 to 15, and strengthen their grip on third place in the Intercity Box Lacrosse League here last night.

Johnny Douglas was Adanacs' sharpshooter, collecting four counters, while Pete Meehan and Rene Leatherbarrow shared Salmonbellies' honors with three apiece.

Dykes Has Support

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Grace R. Comiskey, president-owner of the Chicago White Sox, likes the way Manager Jimmy Dykes is running her baseball team and will "back him to the limit" in the current umpire squabble, which has had the rotund, fiery little pilot under indefinite suspension since Sunday.

Mrs. Comiskey let that be known in no uncertain terms yesterday.

"I don't propose to let Jim down," Mrs. Comiskey said, adding however, that she has not talked over the situation with Dykes, who has been visiting a Minnesota clinic. "We'll back him to the limit."

"He's a snappy manager and the kind we want."

Will Harridge, American League president, who said he has had no word from Dykes, declined to comment on Mrs. Comiskey's statement.

His ruling said Dykes used "obscene and abusive" language to umpire Basil and said Dykes would remain under suspension until he "falls in line" with the other managers of the circuit.

The White Sox were in charge of Coach Harold (Muddy) Ruel against Washington here last night.

Longshoremen In Close Win

The R.C.A.F. lads had their wings clipped last night in an exhibition softball game with the Longshoremen-Causeway team, finishing on the abbreviated end of a 13 to 12 score. Harry Holness, one of the old dependables with the dockworkers, lifted a homer into the blue in the last half of the eighth to come home with the deciding run. The airmen were held scoreless in their half of the ninth.

The air force clubbers started off with plenty zip, vim and vigor, and at the end of three innings had scored 5 runs to 5 for the longshoremen. Both teams smacked home three counters in the sixth and in the seventh, the eventual winners laced home four to go and one run up. Airmen tied things in the first half of the eighth, and Holness' homer took the ball game into the dressing-room for the men in blue and orange.

Ray Byers started for the winners, but was yanked in the sixth to be replaced by Bryant, who finished the game. Sutherland, who started for the fliers, turned over the reins to another man in the sixth also, Randall supplying the relief. Out of five voyages to the platter, Saravati, one of the finest first basemen seen in this city, got four hits, one a homer.

Fights and Racing At Cycledrome

The Douglas Street cycledrome will again be the scene of a mixed card of wrestling, boxing and bike racing this evening in another of Louis Callan's promotions. The first event starts at 8. Tiger Goldstick, who is fast assuming the title of the local badman, will squirm and squeal with Roy Maycock in the main wrestling bout. Bing Lowe will tangle with Johnny Bartell, and Murray Speller and Eric Whitehead will toss each other in all and sundry directions.

Four boxing matches will give variety to the program. Roy Duval and Al Payson of Winnipeg meet in the premier bout, Sam Singh meets Bud Potter, Allan Carlow trades fists with Irvine LeBus.

Bike racing events by some of the city's younger riders will conclude the evening.

Nelson and Hogan Rule Even Choice

DENVER (AP)—A couple of ex-Texas caddies—rivals since Fort Worth schoolboy days—squared off today in the "main event" of quarterfinal matches of the 1941 National Professional Golfers' Association championship.

It was defending champion Byron Nelson against "golfer of the year" Benny Hogan over 36 holes and take your pick.

Hogan, 138 pounds of dynamite, had an edge over his bulkier rival in long shots from the tee, but Nelson matches this as the greatest iron hitter in the game.

Hogan reached the quarterfinals with a 2 and 1 win over Horton Smith in yesterday's 36-hole third round. Nelson came through with a 4 and 3 victory over Ralph Guldahl, a two-time former U.S. open titlist.

In the three other quarterfinal clashes today, Gene Sarazen and Denny Shute matched shots in the "battle of veterans"; colorful Sam Snead, Canadian champion, pitted his long drives against P.G.A. freshman Lloyd Mangrum and Jimmy Hines golfed against Vic Ghezzi.

Results of yesterday's third round mat here follow:

Byron Nelson, Toledo, Ohio, defeated Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 4 and 3.

Gene Sarazen, East Chester, N.M., defeated Bruce Coltart, Absecon, N.J., 9 and 7.

Denny Shute, Chicago, defeated Leonard Ott, Edgewater, Colo., 5 and 3.

Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., defeated Horton Smith, Pinehurst, N.C., 2 and 1.

Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, L.I., defeated Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., 6 and 4.

Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., defeated Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N.Y., 1 up.

Lloyd Mangrum, Monterey Park, Calif., defeated Mark Fry, Oakland, Calif., 1 up.

Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N.J., defeated Jack Grout, West Pittston, Pa., 1 up.

JUNIOR GOLF

With an entry of six the first half of the annual junior championship will be played tomorrow at the Victoria Golf Club.

The draw follows:

9 a.m.—Jim Squire vs John K. Watson.

9:05—A. R. Macdonald vs Ian Gillespie.

9:10—Andrew Gillespie vs Howard Baker.

TORONTO GETS MERULLO

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Toronto Baseball Club of the International League announced last night that 25-year-old Leonard Merullo had been obtained from Los Angeles of the Coast League to play shortstop—weak spot in the Toronto infield.

Merullo belongs to Chicago Cubs of the National League and comes to Toronto on option.

Jokers Confident, Bays Revengeful

"If the Alerts can do it, we can do it," says Joker Coach Jimmy Smith in reference to tonight's game with James Bay. As can be recalled the Alert Service gave the Bays their first beating of the year on Tuesday night, and the Jokers are confident, now that the ice is broken, they can further slide the blue-shirted paragons down the skids.

However, the Jokers, if they pull off this boxia victory they have been so long awaiting, will have to do it without two regular members of their scoring staff. These lads are Sam Andrews and Hugh Milne, members of the Royal Canadian Navy. Jimmy is hoping and half expecting that Porky Andrews will be back in uniform to make a plausible improvement on the unexpected temporary loss.

But the other side of the argument, namely, Ted Menzies' Bays, are a little peeved now that their winning record has been smeared and are ready to take it out on all and sundry, including the Jokers.

Owl Drug and Douglas Tire will meet in the Junior preliminary in what looks to be a very close game. They play at 7. At 6 o'clock and Oakland's battle in a Juvenile B session. The main game starts at 8:30.

12 Cars Ready For Speed Show

Twelve speed wagons, five from Seattle, one from Portland and six from Victoria, will do their stuff in this week's Langford Speedway auto racing meet.

Promoter Jack Taylor today received word from Portland that the No. 4 car owned by the well-known Nealey Burkett, which was scheduled to appear, was in an accident last night and will not be there.

The new No. 47 car from Portland will be here though, with the thriller-man, Claude Walling, at the wheel.

Lou McMurtry will be driving the leading Seattle car, No. 6, once again, and John Small, Seattle, will pilot McMurtry's former car, the No. 62.

Kenny Durango, topnotch mid-gate racer of the Pacific coast, will make his first appearance at the local oval with the No. 39 car. Don Olds will throttle the No. 7 wagon driving in the last show by Ernie Spaulding. The No. 34 car will be on hand from Seattle also but no driver has been named yet.

Jerry Vantreight in the No. 1 car will head the Victoria contingent. Jerry finished second in the main event at the last meet and will be out this time to better his record.

Time trials will open the show at 8:15.

Simtee Captures Racing Feature

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. A. L. McLennan's Simtee, ace of the Riverview Stables, won the fifth and feature race by four lengths at the second day's racing at Brighthouse Park yesterday. Streakworth was second and Steveston Bill third, as Simtee paid off short at $4.20, $3.30 and $2.60 on a $2 pari-mutuel ticket.

The first daily double from Broderick in the first to Tee-worth in the second paid $217.05, and the second double, Naperton in the sixth race to Masked Revue in the seventh, totaled $91.80. Campbell Wins State Tourney

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Scotty Campbell of Seattle, who discovered that wearing his shirt inside out produced sub-par golf, won the Washington State amateur golf tournament for the third straight year at the Walla Walla Country Club yesterday.

Scotty was three under par for 33 holes in defeating 19-year-old Bill Korns, University of Utah student from Salt Lake City, 4 and 3, in the sparkling 36-hole final.

Campbell needed sub-par golf to defend his 1939-40 championship against the threat of the young, bespectacled Utahman who used this tourney as a tune-up for the national public links meet at Spokane next week. Korns was only three over par for his 33 holes.

The match ended on the 33rd as Scotty curled a seven-footer into the cup for a par four and a half. Campbell had pitched short on his second, and went past the pin with his third. Korns had driven into the trees to the right and his run-up rolled over the backside of the green. He played boldly for the hole but missed by three feet, then Campbell canned his twister to end it.

Premier King Ends Western Tour

Believes Conscription Issue Now Removed

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King was traveling back to Ottawa today with a better knowledge of western Canada's war effort.

At the end of a three-week tour of the four western provinces Mr. King carried away from Winnipeg the memory of thousands of soldiers, airmen and naval forces he reviewed from the British Columbia coast to the Manitoba capital.

In getting a first-hand knowledge of the great British Commonwealth Air Training Plan the Prime Minister while in Winnipeg talked over the two-way radio to a pilot of a bomber flying 40 miles northwest of the city. The pilot was C. W. McCollum of Walters, Okla.

Earlier, Mr. King had taken the salute of 1,400 soldiers during a review in Assiniboine Park.

He told them that by uniting in freedom's forces, the fighting men of Canada and other nations of the British Commonwealth, being joined by an increasing number of volunteers from the United States, were forging a new bond of friendship—a new brotherhood of inestimable value to the world when the war was over.

Hopes Conscription Issue Wiped Out

Speaking to the Board of Trade and Canadian Club here the Prime Minister expressed the hope that his efforts of the past three weeks had, so far as the present recruiting campaign was concerned, "served to remove any excuse for raising in Canada the issue of conscription for service overseas."

The Prime Minister answered his critics, mentioning particularly Opposition Leader Hanson, who had declared he should have gone to England instead of touring Canada at this time.

"When the appropriate time comes for me to visit Britain I shall be able to speak with an authority greater than would otherwise have been possible, of Canadian people," Mr. King said.

He described the armed and industrial effort of the Dominion and announced that Canada had made "important commitments" for the defence of Newfoundland and its ports.

Wanted to See Canada First

Mr. King said his tour had been long planned but often postponed because of the pressure of other events, and the session of Parliament.

"No sooner, however, had I begun to carry out the plans tentatively made before adjournment than I was told by the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Hanson) and by some others, who I regret to say appear to have been less anxious to assist than to embarrass me, that... I should be visiting England.

"Had I planned to go to England instead the same critics would have been equally quick to say that my first duty was to the people of Canada... and that at the time a recruiting campaign for overseas forces was in progress my place was in Canada."

His own judgment told him that he should set an example by taking part in the recruiting campaign, the Prime Minister said, and to study Canada's war effort at close quarters before making a journey to England.

"All that I have seen throughout the present tour; all that has happened since I left Ottawa, has convinced me that in making the decision I did I took the right course.

"I believe my efforts have encouraged and assisted others who have been engaged in the recruiting campaign."

"What has already been attempted in the way of reviving that (conscription) issue at this time makes only too clear the advantage that might have been taken of a lengthy absence on my part from Canada, to force the issue into the arena of party strife."

Historic Buildings Bombed

Charterhouse Wrecked In Recent Nazi Raid

(This article, fourth of a series of five, tells how famous places in London have suffered in recent air attacks.)

By PAT USSHER

LONDON (CP)—Charterhouse, one of London's most impressive monuments to the past, was wrecked in a heavy air raid.

Most of its stately old Tudor buildings were gutted although more modern quarters escaped. The fine hammer roof of the great hall was destroyed and the gallery damaged. This hall, where the Carthusian Monastery brethren dined, was considered one of the finest Elizabethan rooms in existence.

WESLEY TABLET

The cloister, containing memorials of many famous Carthusians, was ruined. In the rubble, still intact, are tablets to John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church, and Roger Williams, a scholar of Charterhouse in 1624 and "founder of the state of Rhode Island, a founder of religious liberty in America."

Tyburn tree where many Roman Catholics were executed, has escaped serious damage though houses alongside it were wrecked.

WREN BUILDINGS WRECKED

Bombs also have mutilated Westminster school's buildings close to Westminster Abbey. The College, built from plans drawn up by Wren, was left a charred and roofless wreck. So was the School, the historic hall of assembly which centuries ago was a monk's dormitory.

part from Canada, to force the issue into the arena of party strife.

"How dire the consequences to our national unity this might have proved none can say."

The School, where students struggled annually for pancakes on Shrove Tuesday, is the worst spectacle. The floor is thick with blackened roof timbers, slates and metalwork. Its beautiful old roof was destroyed. Bookcases and pictures there survived, including a picture of an athletic team taken in 1937. One of the players was Von Ribbentrop's son.

Eltham Palace, for 300 years a residence of British kings and queens, was damaged in a daylight raid. Its banqueting hall, with a magnificent hammer-beam roof, was set on fire.

Hour Blackout For Royal City

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—

Air raid precautions officials here are planning another blackout for the city, longer and blacker than the first one in which the Royal City participated when southwestern British Columbia was blacked out for 15 minutes last May.

Tentative plans for the new test were laid at a meeting of representatives of the 24 A.R.P. units active here.

It is planned to keep traffic on the move while the blackout is on for possibly an hour. No definite date was set and officials said the blackout would be staged in short notice.

Letter From Paris

The following letter has come through from France to a teacher who visited Paris just before the war:

I do not think you will be surprised to hear from us, for we have not forgotten your visit with your party of scholars and you must have thought that we would try to get into touch with you. We often speak of you and the boys and wonder what you must think of all this tragedy that has befallen us.

It is something I cannot easily describe. It all seems at times a nightmare from which we shall awake one morning. We see German uniforms everywhere. There seems to be a sort of spell thrown over us, but a reaction must come. Of course, our "milieu" is a little out of the ordinary, but I can tell you that the elder boys in our classes feel the humiliation keenly. We all feel nothing but contempt for our conquerors, for there is nothing in their culture that we can admire, and frankly, we feel they are inferior in all the refinements of life. They feel it too, which adds to the antagonism, for they hate us as firmly as we hate them.

Numbers of our elder boys disappear. No, it is not the Gestapo—they are off to join De Gaulle. Occasionally, they reappear, crestfallen after an unsuccessful "holiday" in the country. However, as Virgil says, the memory of all this may one day make us smile, but we feel sure that from over the Channel will come ultimately deliverance to make "the winter of our discontent glorious summer." Yes, we read our Shakespeare still. A bientot, peupletre. Yours ever, —

NEW ORDER OFFENSIVE

Side by side with the spring offensive in the field Hitler has begun a new offensive. It is clever and is being skillfully carried out. It is an offensive that we cannot afford to ignore.

For several weeks past Germans, speaking French quite well, have been talking on the French radio to French people. One after another, they have sketched out a rough "New Order" plan. They have used no threats. The listener, if he has listened, has heard them talk about a new conception of Europe in which it is made to appear indifferent to them whether the French come in or not.

The line of argument has been, roughly, that every country is particularly adapted to certain kinds of work and the production of certain kinds of goods. The German can make big machinery, the speakers say; other countries can grow crops and raise cattle; the French are an artistic race and second to none for luxury industries, the silk industry, and the producing of fine wines. A "directed economy" will see to it that each part of Europe serves to all the rest those goods in which it has specialized.

The new Europe the German radio speakers paint will not even have to worry about armies, for victorious Germany will do all the necessary policing and, in short, bring about by "practical" methods a League of Nations that the "liberty dreamers" were unable to set up.

The war is ended, say the Germans. The splendid new era can start tomorrow. There is only one obstacle, England and the Jews. Therefore, any aid to eliminate this obstacle is for the good of a new Europe in which peace, perfect peace shall reign.

At the same time that this specious argument is going out in a dozen different forms over the air, the French press, entirely under the heel of the Nazis, is dropping some of its abusive tone towards England and is giving its readers lessons in political economy. There are articles, for instance, about the waterways of Europe, the development of the great canal systems (and France gets a bit of praise for the Canal du Midi uniting the Atlantic and the Mediterranean). Canals are to be the great arteries of the new Europe, and under German management, disguised as "disinterested counsel" will play an important part in the new era of prosperity, in the way in which England is the only obstacle.

Tuned to each kind of public, the siren's song would persuade the worker that there is going to be plenty of work, as it promises the capitalist that labor will be cheap and that his money will be secure. He only has to accept with better grace his defeat, and a magnanimous Germany will see that a reserved seat is kept for him in the "New Order."

Many old age pensioners of Victoria and district and their friends held a picnic Tuesday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park. The elderly men and women of the city renewed old acquaintances and met new friends. G. A. Dyson, president of the association, introduced Aldermen

Radio's Door Always Open

Hard Work Necessary For Success on Air

Every artist has an eye to the radio, as a means of fame and fortune, but not every artist is willing to work and study as hard as such a life entails. Mrs. James McGeer of Vancouver, producer for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, told the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association today.

"Neither age nor class or locality is immune from the lure of radio," she said. "Well, we would all like to discover a gold mine, but we are not willing to tramp the hills to the point of exhaustion like the prospector and endure untold hardships in order to find it."

The door to radio was always open, Mrs. McGeer said. It was not necessary to have a big name to succeed.

"Radio has established itself as one of the fastest-growing industries on this continent. It needs men and women to fill the ranks of entertainers, announcers and writers. The beginner, of course, cannot hope to compete with the big star, but it is possible to build up a radio career without a previous reputation. One does not have to change one's name from Nelson to Nordica or grow long hair to get a hearing."

CAN'T IMPROVE

The only thing that can be controlled by radio is volume, Mrs. McGeer noted. A note can be toned down when it is in danger of blasting, or increased if too faint, but quality cannot be improved or poor production corrected. The microphone simply reflects. It cannot add or take away.

"The aspiring young student, who is casting hopeful eyes at the microphone, must rid himself of the idea it is so easy anyone could do it. Radio work requires exactly the same background of serious work and careful preparation as a visible musical performance. The opportunities are for those who take their art seriously, who believe firmly in themselves and are willing to work their utmost to make others believe in them—they seldom need letters of introduction. Having a radio personality is just another way of saying an artist is hard working, sincere and eager to please. Remember, the listening end of radio is fun, the inside of it is hard work. If you study the programs of the big artists you will note an eager endeavor to please. For it is the public that decides who and what shall remain on the air. In radio it is necessary to refresh your social outlook and build a strong sympathy with an unseen audience. This century has made the radio fan an absolute monarch. The king who boasted of his court jesters had nothing on the radio audience of today, who can, with a turn of the dial, command such jesters as Jack Benny and Bob Hope and a varied type of entertainment."

Mrs. McGeer said it was not true radio had given the amateur a body blow, because it made music so easy of access that the struggling performer lost heart. On the contrary it stimulated interest in music.

Lyra Nebulae To Be Observed

The second of the summer series of popular lectures at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory will be given by Dr. Andrew McKellar on the subject "The Nebulae."

During the half-hour period before observing, Dr. McKellar will show a series of lantern slides, illustrating the various kinds of nebulae. The chief characteristics of the diffuse galactic nebulae and the planetary will be described. Their peculiar pale green light will be explained, and the relationship of the central star to the surrounding nebulae will be discussed.

If the evening is quite clear the remarkable ring nebulae in Lyra will be shown through the 72-inch telescope. The distance of this object is such that its light requires 1,620 years for its journey to the earth. Visitors will see this curious celestial system as it was in A.D. 320. The diameter of the ring is some 4,000,000,000 miles. The central star is of the 15th magnitude, and belongs to the class of stars having the highest known temperatures, of the order of 150,000 degrees. The shell of glowing gas is maintained in equilibrium by the balance between the outward light pressure of the central star and the inward gravitational force.

Another planetary nebulae known as Herschel 4, 37, may be shown. This object is 100 light years away and has a 10th magnitude star in the centre. Sir William Huggins, who was the first to investigate the nebulae spectroscopically studied this object in 1864.

Church Music Not Amusement—Sadler

Church music and community choral singing were debated this morning in open forum at the convention of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association at the Empress Hotel.

Two noted choir leaders, Dr. J. F. Staton of London, well-known in Canada for his adjudications at music festivals and Herbert J. Sadler, conductor of Winnipeg's famed Metropolitan Choir and Westminster United Church Choir, were speakers under chairmanship of Stanley Bulley, conductor of Christ Church Cathedral Choir.

Mr. Sadler said the average church music one heard today was not the real selfless outpouring of the human soul to God, because, for the most part, organized worship was the presentation before an audience of an artistic performance, for the edification of that audience.

NOT FORWARD

"The whole action is too often manward, instead of Godward," he said. "We are looking from the wrong angle. Practically all we do in public worship is referred to self. What we need most is to forget self and approach God with selfless praise. Music is an essential art of life, not a luxury, though some music is an abomination. No valid church music was ever made to be merely listened to as a sensuous pleasure. It must not be an act of amusement—it must be an act of worship."

Mr. Sadler said members of church choirs must have religious experience. They cannot be heathens and at the same time sing Christian music and edify people. This was not honest, he said, adding "there is no use trying to put it across if you don't feel it."

He said organists and choir masters must be examples—they must be Christians and good churchmen.

"I have no patience with organists and choir masters, who look on their work purely as a job," he said. "Those people are sailing under false pretences. They must believe in what they are doing—we all must believe what we are singing. We must express our own convictions."

COMMON DEFECTS

Dr. Staton gave advice to choir leaders. He pointed out the common defects found in the modern choir, which, he said, he said, not so much from the lazy lip as from the person who mouths everything. When that happens, rhythm is lost, for it takes too long for the mouth to close. There were the choir singers who open their mouths by slow motion, ruining the attack. He warned against male singers lifting their shoulders, against the frown and the forced smiles and stiff military stance. There was "the lady who always will be heard," the people who insisted on singing the parts that pleased them most, the person with the closed throat, generally found in the one who opened the mouth the most. Accompanists, he said, must take blame for much poor choir singing. There were those who played daintily and delicately, who wouldn't listen, and "the man who for the first time has met a concert grand and won't let you forget it."

Choir leaders applauded when Dr. Staton spoke of the people "who won't let you put them where you want to put them—who have paid a subscription and feel they are doing you a favor when they sing in your choir."

Today's work of the music teachers started with a breakfast, when members of the national executive and presidents of the provincial branches were guests of the Victoria branch.

MUSIC

Miss Dorothy Francis, violinist, with Noel Smith at the piano, following the choir form played Edward Grieg's Sonata Op. 8.

At the pianoforte forum, under the chairmanship of Mary Robertson of Winnipeg, the speakers were: W. L. Wright of Brandon, Eileen Gilley of New Westminster and Barbara Custance of Vancouver.

Before the gathering adjourned for lunch, Miss Mary Munn, noted Canadian blind pianist, was acclaimed for her rendition of Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue; Brahms' Intermezzo in A Major and Rachmaninoff's Prelude.

Gwendolyn Owen Davies, well-known pianist of Winnipeg, gave pleasure with her interpretation during the week of Chopin's "Sonata in B Minor."

that the death resulted from a drinking party and since he arrived at Refuge Cove, Noah Thomas had been convicted under the Indian Act on a charge of supplying liquor to an Indian.

An inquest into the woman's death will be held at Tofino next Thursday. In the meantime the body has been turned over to the Nootka band of Indians for burial.

FINISH COATING

30 CITY STREETS

Flushcoating of 30 city streets was completed today as the works department moved to protect that asset from the deteriorating effects of next winter's rain.

The job started on July 2, was carried through under ideal conditions and brought no complaints nor reports of accidents to the city engineer's department.

New surfaces were applied wherever the old had perished. In addition to keeping water out of cracks that are calked by the material, the system in use in Victoria for the last six years also provides a nonskid surface, which materially reduces traffic hazards in frosty weather.

Summer Students

Hear Cherniavsky

For the second time in two days Jan Cherniavsky, distinguished Russian-Canadian pianist, delighted a Victoria audience with his artistic abilities in a recital to students of the summer school in the Victoria High School auditorium today. Yesterday he performed for the enjoyment of delegates attending the music teachers' convention now in progress here.

Devoting the second section of today's program to Brahms and Chopin, the noted artist found splendid scope for his exceptional talents, and won applause from his appreciative audience.

Opening with Haydn's "Theme and Variations," he continued with Stavenhagen's "Minuet," Hummel's "Rondo," and the Bach-Busoni "Chaconne."

In his second group he brought out the beauties of Brahms' "Ballade," "Hungarian Dance," and "Rhapsodie in G Minor," finishing with the Chopin selections: "Nocturne," "Two Studies" and "Scherzo in B Flat Minor."

This evening the students will hold their second weekly dance in the High School gym and will round out the week's activities with a tour of inspection of the Parliament Buildings tomorrow morning, starting at 10.30, and a beach ramble around Cadboro Bay, Ten Mile Point and Telegraph Bay, starting at 1.45 from the end of the Uplands car line.

INDIAN'S DEATH

ARREST EXPECTED

An arrest is expected shortly in connection with the death of Mrs. Hippolyte Thomas, an Indian, at Refuge Cove, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, on July 1, it was reported today by Provincial Police.

The woman was found dead under mysterious circumstances and Inspector R. Owens was sent to the scene to investigate.

Water Played Part in Making Important Rocks

When I was a boy, my friends and I used to speak of "throwing rocks." We would go down to the lake and pick up "rocks" to throw into the water, seeing which one could throw the farthest.

Since that time I have learned that it would have been better for us to speak of throwing stones, not rocks. A real rock is a mass of stone. It may be as large as the Rock of Gibraltar, or even larger. It would take quite a giant to throw real rocks around.

Rocks make up the hard part of the earth's crust. There are rock layers down to a depth of several miles. We do not know just how far down they go. The deepest oil wells ever drilled have passed through rock, clear to the bottom, but we cannot tell how much rock there is below them.

Among the main kinds of rock are shale, sandstone and limestone. Water has played a part in making all three of those.

Shale is a product of mud which was laid down at the bottom of lakes and other bodies of water. When the lakes dried up, they left the mud behind, and slowly it hardened and turned into rock.

If shale is broken, it often can be picked up in slabs. Certain kinds of shale have gone through pressing and heating which have turned them into slate.

Pelican Rock in Yugoslavia.

Sandstone is a rock made out of sand. Sometimes it can be crushed easily and turned back into sand. The sand may be white, yellow, red, brown or green.

Other kinds of rock were placed in beds by volcanoes. Lava flowed out of the volcanoes and hardened into rock.

Rocks which came from lava are not all the same kind. The lava does not always cool at the same rate, and this makes a difference in the rock produced. Granite is a very important rock which came from lava.

All kinds of rock are worn down by the action of water and the weather. Falling rain, creeks and rivers work on rock and wear them away. When water freezes in rock cracks, the ice needs more room and may make the cracks wider.

In some places, odd-looking masses of rock have been left standing after water and weather have done their work. Near Devil's Lake, Wisconsin, I saw a rock in the shape of an elephant.

In Yugoslavia, near the town of Prilip, is a large rock which looks like a pelican taking a rest. It is called Pelican Rock. In the Middle Ages, Christian Serbians went to this rock to carry on religious service at a time they were fleeing from the Turks.

MINE EXPLOSION DEATH TOLL 17

ACMAR, Ala. (AP)—The death toll in an explosion-racked wing of Acmar Coal Mine No. 6, mounted to 11 today and weary rescue crews struggled through tons of debris.

Volunteers working all night by lamplight succeeded in extracting nine bodies before daybreak. It was known two were still buried.

The dead miners, nine negroes and two white men, were trapped in the mine's eighth entry, more than a mile underground, some time yesterday afternoon by what company chief deputy Herbert Glnight described as "a local gas explosion."

The explosion was not heard on the surface and the accident was not known until J. L. Poe, a miner, discovered a dead power wire leading into the chamber where the men died.

Rescue crews went immediately into the shaft, other chambers were closed off and miners called from their jobs.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Will you settle this matter? I think that a girl is a spinster at the age of 25, and that a man is considered a bachelor at 30. My friend says it is the other way about. A girl is a spinster at 30 and a man a bachelor at 25.

EDWARD.

Answer: The dictionary definition of spinster is: "An unmarried woman, especially when no longer young," and the term bachelor is applied in the same way to men. Inasmuch as a woman's age always rates higher than a man's, that is, a woman is older at the same age than a man, you are more nearly correct than your friend, but nobody would dream nowadays of calling a girl of 25 a spinster.

In olden times, when it was the custom for girls to marry at 16 and 17, a woman was considered to be getting into the old maid class when she was 25, but now at that age she is still a mere girl. Many girls are just graduating from college at that age. Others are just getting a start in their professions and the great majority are only beginning to think seriously of marrying and settling down.

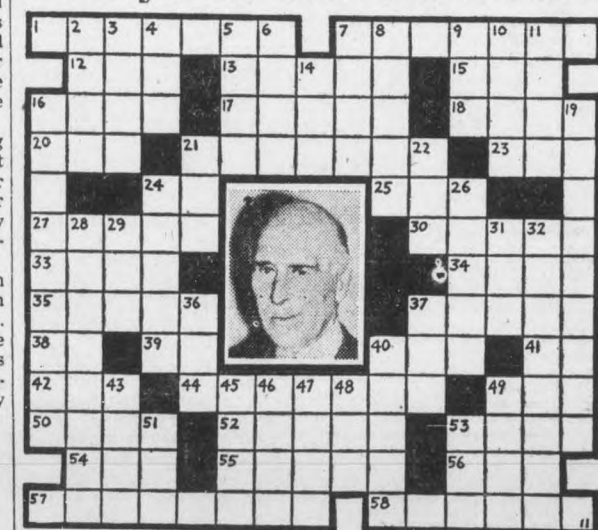

Answer: The next time your daughter-in-law tells you to get out if you don't like the way you are treated, take her advice. Walk out on her. Leave her flat. Just put on your hat and take your clothes and go.

When she and your selfish son have to wrestle with a four-year-old brat and try to get hired help who will cook and wash and scrub and baby-tend, they will realize what a Godsend they have had in a slave mother and be on their knees to get you back.

I have no sympathy to waste on the women who do nothing but whimper and cry when their husbands or their children order them to get out of the house that they make habitable by their work, because they have such a perfect instrument of revenge in nurse, because they have such a perfect instrument of revenge in nurse can go into somebody else's home and get pay for the work she has been doing for nothing. And she won't have to work half as hard either.

DOROTHY DIX.

To Fight Germany

OTTAWA (CP)—Polish conditions for organization of armed forces which would participate in the fight against Germany in Russia were set out at conference in London between Polish and Russian representatives, Victor Podolski, Polish consul-general in Canada, said he was informed here.

Mr. Podolski said the information received by him quoted the Polish Telegraph Agency and dealt with "the present state of Polish-Russian negotiations."

The report said Gen. W. Sikorski, Polish Prime Minister, told the Russian ambassador in London that organization of Polish forces to fight in the east would depend on Russian annulment of that country's agreement with Germany, release of persons arrested and deported by Russia when part of Poland was occupied.

Music Teachers

Concert for Red Cross; Canadian Compositions

By S.B.

The concert organized by the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations in aid of the Canadian Red Cross last evening at the Empress Hotel climaxed the efforts made by the various branches since January on behalf of this charitable organization. Thirteen hundred dollars has been raised in the last six months, including approximately $400 last evening, since with the generous cooperation of artists, advertising agencies, printers, hall managers and others, the entire receipts, completely free of all expenses, were made available for the fund.

The program might well have been termed an Australian war effort, since six of the eight artists: Selma Reyes, Leila and Max Pirani, Arthur Benjamin, Clement Q. Williams and Enid Conley, all hail from "down under," and have recently taken up residence in Victoria and Vancouver.

Selma Reyes, violinist, with Maquinn Daniels, pianist, both of Victoria, commenced the evening program with Tchaikovsky's "Serenade Melancolique" and "Gipsy Airs," by Sarasate. Their fine playing resulted in prolonged demands for an encore, and they responded with "Moto Perpetuo," by Novacek. This practice was tacitly abandoned by all as the evening wore on, owing to the length of the program.

John Goss, whose art is uniquely personal, contributed a group of unaccompanied ballads and folk songs. "The Three Ravens," "Lilliburlero," and "Where Have You Been, Lord Randall, My Son," were coupled with two folk songs from the Kentucky Mountains, "I Wonder As I Wander," and "The Moon Shiner." His efforts were warmly received, distinguished as they are with emotional intensity and fluid rhythmic vitality.

FRONT-RANK ARTISTS

Leila and Max Pirani, violinist and pianist, combined to give a fine performance of Szymanowski's "Sonata Op. 9." This composition did not do justice to the fine players; it is too diffuse in thought and consequently fails in appeal when injected into a program of the nature presented on this occasion. The artists are unquestionably of the front rank, with complete command over the rich technical and aesthetic qualities which this implies.

Arthur Benjamin played Cesar Franck's monumental work, "Prelude, Choral and Fugue," with his customary finely-balanced, scholarly musicianship.

Clement Q. Williams, the well-known radio singer, injected lightness into the program with his singing of the humorous ditty: "Dr. Foster"; added his artistry in Dunhill's "Cloth of Gold" and Martin Shaw's "Palanquin Bearers," concluding with "Waita Poi," a New Zealand Maori song, and two Australian aboriginal songs, "Bangee-rang-an-an-ah," and "Warrego Lament." Enid Conley (Mrs. Williams) accompanied.

Charles Wood's "Eden Spirits," for female voices, was commendably sung by the St. Cecilia Choristers, under the direction of Nancy Paisley Benn, with Hilda Sluman accompanist. Choristers Ruth Dickson, Mary Holmes, Laura Cookman and Peggy McNeill were soloists. This group of young people came over from Vancouver for the concert, and are finely balanced. Perhaps the lateness of the hour was partly responsible for a slight lack of clarity of diction.

COMPOSITIONS

Probably the most significant feature of the convention took place yesterday afternoon when performances of original compositions by members of the association were given. This was preceded by pleasingly competent playing of Beethoven's "Kreutzer Sonata," by Joy Calvert, violinist of Vancouver, and Una Calvert, pianist of Victoria.

It was a disappointment not to hear the pianoforte quartette by Barbara Pentland, as I understand this work is so significant that it could have been given a hearing. If the program submitted was a criterion of the work being done by Canadian composers, it must be confessed that it appears that we must wait a while longer for the development of Canadian composers who will take their places among those who not only have something to say, but also have the technical skill to say it lucidly.

At the same time much of the work by native musicians that was presented showed sound musicianship, and Jean Coulthard Adams of Vancouver shows in her work that the Canadian creative artist of stature is by no means nonexistent.

The presentation of new works involving singers and unfamiliar words needs the greatest care, since if the utmost clarity of diction is not obtained, the initial appeal suffers; the composers were not well served at all times, but a sufficiently clear picture was obtained to be able to gauge the songs performed.

WARMLY ACCEPTED

Three songs by Winifred Brewer of Vancouver, settings of poems by Muriel Watson, were sung by Clement Q. Williams, with Enid Conley as pianist. "I Saw a Lovely Lady," "The Plea," "Courage," are songs distinguished by simplicity and directness of appeal; the craftsmanship is sound, but the vocabulary is restricted. They were warmly accepted by the audience. "Grey Rocks," by Kathleen Robson, and "The Rainbow," by T. H. Hannay, Winnipeg composer, are undistinguished, modest efforts lacking in spontaneity. They were sung by Anne Grant with Mrs. Hugh Verrall at the piano.

"The Bonny Blue Handkercher," by Herbert Sadler of Winnipeg for vocal quartette is a composition of the highest order; it exemplifies the frequent statement that the best folk song melodies are consciously composed. Not only does the tune itself reach the heights of the folk song idiom, but the polyphonic setting ranks with anything of the kind that we have heard. If anything, it is a little too complex so that the charming simplicity of the poem is at times obscured, however clear the diction of the singers.

JEAN COULTHARD ADAMS

Jean Coulthard Adams of Vancouver contributed two songs for voice, violin and piano. It showed her as the most significant Canadian composer at the convention. She speaks with the language of the day; her harmonic vocabulary is rich, with an unconfined melodic line that possesses a sweep and breadth all too rare in many composers of today, and while her two songs, "Low Tide" and "My True Love Hath My Heart," show, in addition, a gift for invention, there was at times a slight sense of overstraining of effort. They were performed by the composer as pianist, Marie Rodker, contralto, and Elfreda Sewell, violinist.

A "Concert Etude," by Gordon McLean of Winnipeg also showed the young Canadian composer can speak the language of the day, as might be expected. More efforts by him will be welcome. It was played by Elsa Disney.

Two songs, "Cradle Song" and "At Night," by Allard de Ridder of Vancouver, show sound musicianship but are undistinguished. They were sung by Lila McCormack, with Nancy Benn, pianist.

Arthur Benjamin, who has recently taken up residence in Vancouver, is a member of the as-

War Puts Drugs Up 25 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—Mark up another "war casualty" — the drug industry.

Loss of European supply sources through German domination, wholesale merchants estimated today, has boosted drug prices in Canada 25 per cent beyond pre-war levels, with no definite indication of improvement yet in sight.

And officials at the health laboratories of the Pensions and National Health Department admit there is a "definite shortage" of many basic pharmaceutical supplies used in preparation of medicinal supplies sold across Canadian drug store counters.

"Britain and the United States are doing a grand job in trying to supply us," one official said, "and our own laboratories are doing the best they can."

"But there are certain supplies for which substitutes just aren't available."

MORE HEADACHES

Here is the situation relating to some pharmaceutical products which the war has made difficult or impossible to obtain:

Caffeine, used in headache tablets, formerly was manufactured at Montreal from theobromine obtained in the Netherlands. This supply now is eliminated and officials see little possibility of a substitute being obtained, although there has been talk of extracting caffeine from low-grade coffee and cocoa waste.

Belladonna, used in certain laxatives and liniments, was obtained from Germany and Hungary before the war. It has been produced in British Columbia to some extent, but further cultivation sociation, but cannot be considered a Canadian composer. He has already made his mark in this field, and his sonata for violin and pianoforte is sufficient evidence that his international reputation is well deserved. In this work we have all the elements that distinguish such a composer; fine craftsmanship, a fluent contemporary vocabulary, combining to give expression to a highly-charged emotional experience. The composer and Jean de Rimanoczy, who played the violin part, were greeted with warm applause.

vation will be necessary to meet Canada's needs.

Henbane, for stomach and kidney ailments, and stramonium, used in treatment of asthma, are in the same class as Belladonna.

LOSE SCENTS

Rose oil from Bulgaria and other perfume oils from France, Sicily and Turkey are no longer obtainable. Russian mineral oil also is cut off, but has been replaced by American oils on most markets.

Other drugs difficult to import include quinine, cinchona, citric acid, tartaric acid, potash of permanganate, potassium nitrate, codeine, lanolin and the botanical drugs such as ergot, lavender flowers, orange peel, gascara, camomile, malva flowers, buchu, henna, peppermint, gentian, arnica flowers, senega, anise, poppy, fennel, arabic, asafetida, myrrh and benzoin gums.

America's swiftest streamlined airplane is an Interceptor P-38, made for the U.S. Army Corps and Great Britain. It is armed with cannon and machine guns.

If one rivet team, working 40-hour weeks, drove all the rivets in a bomber, it is estimated it would take five years and four months.

NEW YORK POST PICKETED

NEW YORK (AP)—Pickets representing a number of isolationist organizations paraded in front of the building of the New York Post after the paper's first edition appeared with a front page editorial calling on the United States to declare war immediately on Germany.

The pickets, including William Thomas, son of Socialist leader Norman Thomas, who marched as an individual, followed a leader who carried a United States flag. They displayed banners on one of which was the inscription—"New York Post says war—the people say no."

The pickets, who numbered about 50, said they included members of the America First Committee and the Keep America Out of War Congress.

The editorial in the Post, an Independent Democrat paper which favors President Roosevelt's foreign policy, said:

"Isolation... we see now, is deadly, and Hitler is isolating us deliberately... we should declare war."
